Issue 895

Date: December 28, 2017

Time 5 pm

Hello to you, as I greet you for this last transmission for 2017 and I open the Omega Portal for the information to come through. Information is energy, or is energy information? Energy informing us? It is all interesting. Come with me, being present in the initial receiving area of the Station of Light, and so we begin.

The way I feel in this space today is as if I am in a vortex of energy. The energy is spinning around me individually and perhaps this is also something that you are experiencing. I love the symbology of it because it indicates that this spinning energy can be spinning so fast that it clears all of the old experiences from you that you do not need any more, and now I wonder what we can be given today in this session.

“ Greetings Beloved, I acknowledge you in this space here, individually I address you. Orem coming forward and making my presence known to you in this space.

This is essential in the opening to you, as you may be unaware of who is present and what will come around you, so I open the portal and surround you in the energy sphere here that is necessary for you, helping you to regain your balance in this state, as you remember how you have become used to being present here and that the spaces you are drawn into are all part of the programme we have to assist you to move beyond the limits of the normal physical brain and sensing of the human being unit, into remembering and accessing the higher states of your consciousness. This state of consciousness is always present with you and when you assemble with us, we are able to expand that state of awareness that you have, assisting you in many ways and surrounding you in a vortex of energy which is helping stimulate areas within your senses which allow you to participate more in these gatherings.

Therefore, what you have been drawn into in this space will become clearer as you allow an inner focus to expand throughout your body of light presence here.

This is to encourage you to move into this space more readily and to identify pathways which are opening to you and you can move through these pathways and discover groups of beings that you may identify as helpers or beings that you are participating in their function, which may be extending beyond the Earth planet into many other civilisations. Also, there are many of you who are identifying the groups of beings present here who work with you directly in the Earth space. All of this is available to everyone of you.

Initially you will be identifying that you have connected with the group who are working around planet Earth station and within different pockets of civilisations. This is bringing in higher light frequency into many states of consciousness present amongst the population around you. As you identify with this group that you are working with, you are acknowledged as being a prime focus and vessel for the immediate people around you in your environment.

You are being given the energy in this moment to strengthen this within you, so you may sense your appearance is changing. This is happening so that you perceive yourself, and acknowledge yourself, as being within this energy frequency which does allow you to access a higher flow of energy, because this is the purpose of your presence and that purpose is also to allow you to bring more light into what is around you.

As you observe your connections and relationships in your daily life pattern, you can easily identify the ones who are open to receive and who are receiving on a higher vibration and who sense that they have awakened and that they are helping an evolutionary step to occur. You will also see those ones who are not ready to understand. Some of that may be as a result of lack of energy, or lack of alignment to Source Energy and when you are consciously connected with Source Energy yourself, as you are in this session, you can become the trigger for all the ones around you to move into particular alignments.

We are aware, as you receive this transmission, that there is a movement, travelling, amongst many people to visit different places or groups of people during the times that you celebrate holiday breaks. This is very important because as well as breaking you from the daily routines established, where a lot of your energy goes into - your personal individual energy - you are also able to draw upon the higher element of Source Energy to be in that different location.

Enjoy this process that has been established during the holiday break sessions that you have and those of you who do not transit to another area, you are still having times of separation, however short that may be, from the daily routines.

Again, enjoy the opportunity of connecting in to the light energy frequency given to you in this time and celebrate the light within yourself.

From your position upon Earth Station you are able to connect to various other spheres of energy and information who are drawing closer to Earth and also those spheres of energy are assisting in the appropriate location and adjustment of the energy flows coming into you, to the places around you, to the planet. Other areas in galaxies are also moving in accordance with how Earth is moving and the flow of energy throughout the system of Creation is moving in a pattern that assists every other spatial dimensional existence involved in this whole creativity unfoldment. Be aware of this. Be aware also that you may be sensing the changes.

Being aligned in the transmission and in the Station as you come into it every time, helps you to completely be balanced as you receive the different flows of energy. Use them to expand your consciousness and to increase your energy, your vitality. This could be a focus for you during the times during your days when you may appear to be losing focus, losing attention to the overall placement and the overall planet and the planet's upliftment and the upliftment process of you all.

Perhaps you visualise that there are individual stations and mobile stations that travel - vessels of light - carrying people or passengers and you may visualise in your understanding that there are many structures and many control centres and many beings involved. This is correct, but there are many layers involved in all of that overall process. Many of the beings do not require a physical form such as you have, therefore they do not require technical equipment and yet they do require the communication network and the ability to make adjustments in energy systems through conscious thought.

As you become aware of this and perhaps this is confirming what you have already been thinking about, then you can move into that state of consciousness where you can make changes yourself with your intention, with your alignment with Source Energy and what you resonate with coming through different channels to you and what is appropriate for you to overlay energy and intention in such a way that it assists the process of everyone involved. When you identify yourself as a living energy organism and you identify every other person as such, this is how you can impress upon the energy field what is required in change, or simply sharing that higher energy system. This is appropriate for many of you to realise. You do not superimpose by will. It is allowing the higher energy system to supply you with the concepts of what you are presented with in a way that the energy itself will be doing the required connections. We need to explain that to you so that you are not helping by forcing change. You present the energy to other living energy systems or organisms.

You are surrounded in the energy system here which again is clearing you, purifying many of your systems and you may have been realising this has been happening in your physical body forms and this makes the pathways clear for the higher pattern of light and energy, activating the sensory aspects of you into the smallest particle and energy within you each.

We are present observing you, observing Earth as it is responding to frequencies given to it. There are times when some of us are present amongst areas and people on the surface of the planet. We would not readily be identified by most people. It is not our intention to draw attention to us. We are simply observing and connecting with you and the many other beings who are aware of their presence as having a purpose, and so we regularly call you into these spaces to remind you of this, to observe how you are responding to the energy around you and we can also observe the responses of other people and what is needed to assist.

This was the intention of this message at this time and we draw you back to be aware that you are gathered in the receiving area of the Station.

There have been many of us addressing you in ongoing transmissions. This would be helping you, because you will have learned to accept the energy and the presentation with the words and you would identify those of us who have spoken to you. So, again we have given you energy to uplift, to clear, to adjust you, so feel this throughout your light form.

We acknowledge you here, Beloved Orem out “

Thank you Orem. This is Lani speaking to you again. I really felt their presence when he spoke about observing us and there was a very strong blue energy around us all, and I sensed that in the observation of the entire planet.

Now I am sensing that the energy in your mind and your heart has been changed, has been linked together or aligned in some way. I feel there is a difference and then of course this difference will be flowing throughout everywhere in your entire energy system, entire body framework and cellular functioning and whatever drives the functions of the cells. It is enormous. It is amazing, the universe that you are. I ask you now to move back to connect with your physical body. Feel the peace and light that flows out from you, to everywhere you have been this year, everywhere you are and many of you will have travelled to different places, even in the country where you live, or in other countries. It seems everyone is important, as we acknowledge the connection and purpose that we have.

Thank you for joining me in this session and we will continue again. Be firmly connected back into your body, being aware of your location and being fully present. I give my thanks to all of the Beings involved in this session, and I close the Portal as this transmission is complete.
