I open the Omega Portal for this new energy transmission and I settle myself; I settle my thoughts, I settle my body, so that the essential light body essence is free, and in that freedom I link with you in that light body essence - in that aspect of your consciousness which is free to travel. Again, I gather us together to meet in the receiving area of the Station of Light. This particular portal that is available to us leading directly into communicate with other Beings dedicated to expand our consciousness, dedicated to assist us in that expansion and dedicated in this part of the presence of Earth in its present cycle, to become a higher operating and functioning place to be in. Many of us thought that we would come into a planetary system which would be more receptive to the higher energy frequencies and yet many of us were disappointed that it hadn't been advanced as quickly as we expected it to be. So we transferred some of that sense of loss or disappointment into the reality around us, and ever since then, we have been coming back into alignment with that greater sense of service and awakening and we have been getting ourselves back on track, back connected into our sense of purpose and the original aspect of ourself that was greatly evolved that chose to come back to Earth. So here again, we are putting ourselves into a receptive state for the forthcoming information and energy presented in this area, in this zone.

Your attention here is also preparing yourself in many ways for different information and preparing you for a different cycle that will be unfolding you in the Earth area.

“As we come amongst you in this part of the transmission, Beloved, Orem addressing you, you will find that you will be reconnecting with some elements of your own self in terms of evolvment and in terms of what you promote in your environment and you will also be reconnecting with some aspects of self that had been operating in different levels of existence and that means different realities of life patterns and it means different realities in respect to different places in existence - different planetary systems - different ideals that were presented into a creative manifested flow of information. You become connected into many of those aspects of self. Some of those would be more awakened than you are at present and some would be less observant and less participating in the ongoing evolvment than you are, but you, in the present here, are receiving the fullness of the information required, all that is appropriate for you to experience now and for you to make a difference in this unfolding universe that enfolds Earth and expands Earth and its environmental situation. The environmental situation does include more than its particular planetary existence. It does include many of the known planets around you and draws information through the channel through your known Sun - another gateway and another presence. So, all around you there is information that you are receiving,

You may be able to differentiate between some of the flows of energy that are given to you. Some of the energy comes to you in images and in blocks of information and in particular words. The words will be given to you in daily conversations, words you will recognise that are common in your language, but the way they are presented to you is given with energy and it is this which ignites a memory within you and when we say ignites a memory, you can liken this to a little expansion or explosion within some of the circuitry within you, and the circuitry can contain information which will unfold step by step to you, as if you are watching a film or reading a manuscript in some way, or listening to a message just in words. It is all part of the expansion within you.

We talk about receiving energy in various elements around you. At this time, we bring your attention into your particular energy field as it is here in this Station - your body of light. You may observe it at this time as being fluid and having particular patterns that you can see circulating within it, perhaps as energy lines, perhaps as circuits, perhaps as flowing colours - all representing to your particular interpretation, a system that is alive and which responds to communication from other levels around you and responds to impulses of energy rays and frequencies contained in rays of energy, or light. All of this is feeding you in some way with either the energy needed for your physicality on some level, or with further information.

Already in this transmission you have received a great deal of information relating to your presence in the reality that is manifested around you on Earth and also relating to what you are drawing to you from different aspects. We bring you to the edge of your consciousness field many times, and we also bring you into a state where you feel you are being adjusted and aligned into a particular area. All of this is part of the ongoing upgrade for you so that you will retain a sense of physicality around you, but you also enjoy in that physicality many streams of information and different levels of functioning for the physicality to maintain its presence in the changing energy field on Earth. Again here you may sense that you are being stretched and there are fragments of you changing. The changes occur in such a way that there are different pockets of energy within you and around you that become changed in a different timeframe, layer by layer, and this will serve to help you understand that each layer is significant in your experience. The changes will be different for each of you. Each experience of you, an experience that may have existed as a different form and life pattern, has patterns within it that need to be freed so that you are free to change and move forward in response to the calling. The calling you receive from the communication level from different degrees of existence from Source Energy and from the different areas that we have here in the main Station for Earth that you resonate with. The sense of yourself you will have as being very spherical and having different spheres that are drawn out further from you in different directions - multi directional and multi faceted and each aspect relates to a different part of you, and yet every part of you originated from one aspect of Source Creation. This is what primarily you are receiving the information from for all of the aspects of you.

It is helpful for you to experience this in this way, for it will put in place within your own consciousness field some of the questions you have had arise in you, and you will also sense around you some of the colours you have been seeing and the waves of energy pulses that you have been seeing or sensing. It is part of what you are drawing to you to help you unfold and reconnect back to that original Source Energy of You. Even at that point it was individuated as that aspect of yourself which is part of this humanoid aspect now. It is greater than that. It has many energy particles of it.

We bring you forward at this present part of the transmission into a vast chamber where you may observe many groups of Beings all working with energy lines and it all becomes connected and woven into various degrees of matter - of perhaps denseness. Some aspects will be finely attuned and relate to the essence of some manifested areas that were more fluidic - more etheric than what you are used to now. There are other areas that are very dense and the consciousness of the form that you would relate them to something quite solid as perhaps a vast mountainous form, but it was conscious, it had energy, just in a perhaps dense formation. In between, you are here as your present self experiencing a physical human form which is being upgraded continuously.

Recognise that in this vast connected chamber, everything in creation is observed, it is helped.

No aspect is ever as you would term it, alone, it is all participating in an overall sense of creation manifesting. Many Beings chose to come to Earth, some chose to help with the cleansing, some willingly came forth for short periods of time to experience what was occurring and some came forward to bring in information and light and in bringing that in, as you will be sensing in each of you now, you know that there is a process occurring - a very strong process - of connecting to a pure line of information and energy - a purified energy system. This energy system will have an effect upon you, you might say of toning you, of increasing some activity in your energy field and cellular componentry. You will be sensing throughout all of your body, you will be resonating with some of the changing fields.

We withdraw you from this chamber of observing the constant flow and adjustment that spans beyond your known measurement of units. It exists out of time and space measured in units as you know it and we withdraw you back from that to being here in the central communication chamber known to you, adjusting you to this space again. “

“Also present here Su Yan Rah presenting myself to you again. Be not concerned if you have not fully comprehended what has been presented to you in this area. You will respond to the sensory perception of it and then you will feel changes within you. You may just feel a settling, confirmation, and in that settling and confirmation, you will feel rising up in you, the certainty of the reason why you are present, knowing that you are advancing and evolving and knowing that this time you are drawing into you everything you need at this time. Feel it around you in this space. We are assisting you with this. We also assist you to recognise that there is existence throughout all of the planetary systems that are within your awareness now, and yes this is increasing - we are aware that you are aware of that. Also, your consciousness field embraces all of that. This is helping you to become aware that you are connected in within this great creationist existence and it is possible from that aspect of the encompassment that you are experiencing to give that joy and gratitude to the Earth station and all of the patterns of life upon it. You are drawing together many aspects of information and the energy system and I am able during this part of the presentation to also bring the awareness of the reality around you of a dimensional energy field civilisation, bringing it forward into a greater clearer manifested state of working together as great groups of beings, all around your planet, all around the consciousness field now which understands the concept of the cities of light and this whole vibrating aspect that vibrates not just around you in the energy, but you feel it within your unit, within your light body essence unit here, and within all aspects of you.

We give you encouragement of this part of your expansion, and that is my message to you at this time. Thanking you, thanking you. “

“Orem back with you again now and in this space I collect you again to bring back to the receiving area of the Station. You have to bring back into you all those aspects that experienced expansion and even though you may feel you lose the energy of it, that is just part of your presence on Earth, believing that you will forget it, but when you accept the higher aspect of yourself, you remember everything, you remember all of the energy and thus you bring that back into you, as is required in every moment. Within the receiving area, I leave you

Orem out “

Lani again back with you and I thank all of those Beings involved in this very deep energy message. Are you ready to bring it all back into your body? Feel that you are being drawn back to your physical body, take a moment to experience a flow of energy through you, through your bloodstream, visualising it pulsing through you. Every cell of your body welcomes this energy, filled with light again. As I close the portal, make sure you are fully connected back in the Earth plane in this current life phase.

Lani
