Time: 7 pm

Welcome again to the Omega Communications Portal.

I gather you in around me with everyone who is receiving on this wavelength, with everyone who is resonating with this energy that I connect with, and together, we are, and have established an information network which is an aspect of the work being done to help raise our energy field and our consciousness whilst we are here on Earth in the current physical body.

I welcome you here in this regard and I call on you to be attentive and to come with me to assemble in your light body awareness in the receiving area of the Station of Light. These journeys together, as we embark on them, I sometimes feel very humble because they are short in our time-span and yet the more you work with them, the deeper you will go into your own states of consciousness and expanding into the energetic field surrounding us all.

So, it is quite important and helpful, to the degree that you allow it to be that, and as you allow yourself to go deeper with each energy transmission.

So, here you are again with me in this gathering and so we will begin.

“Acknowledged. Orem coming forward to you here and we are delivering to you more of the energetic codes which you will be able to integrate within your energy field and of course that goes throughout all of the levels of your awareness, including your mind, including your speech, including your different levels that relate to activating your physical body.

The more energy and information you can take in from the higher pattern, allows the physical body to be able to adapt to a higher frequency and the frequency aligns you to greater areas within the unfolding dimensions around you. They exist but they appear to be unfolding as you are able to integrate more of the energy that is presented in them around you.

Perhaps you could see yourself in the midst of a flower bud that is opening and as you peel a petal back, you are receiving a greater flow of light into you and thus you become dynamically charged with the energy patterns that are the dimensional layers of existence. There are many of these dimensional layers of existence surrounding you and the ones we bring you into and present to you are the ones that are necessary for you to integrate in the current time period.

You will notice that these have changed. If you have become attentive to receiving these messages from previous years then you will notice the change and you will see that you have changed because you can perceive more of what is occurring around you and you will have developed greater understanding with the sensations you have and what you perceive as you journey inward within consciousness.

Expansion of consciousness is a term, because this is easy for you to understand what is happening around you, and so you would feel as you are stationed here in this receiving area, you have expanded to encompass a diverse multi-layered image of how you perceive the surrounding universe and patterns and the interweaving of different groups meeting together and receiving parts of the information that relate to the overall plan and the systemic expansion and inclusion of a great number of more beings who are present on Earth and how that relates to groups of beings existing in other stations of light energy and existence.

If you are receiving this as we are presenting it to you, in this moment you will feel you have stretched and you are moving through different patterns of light and the light represents many of the different dimensional areas that we refer to.

In particular, we are bringing your attention to the energy system known as water on your planet and everything that is contained within that. Water itself in its natural state is filled with information patterns measured perhaps as certain nutrient levels and lifeform levels and that relates to whether it is more saline related or to do with clarity and less saline solution and the patterns change. All of that flowingness referred to as water is being enhanced with the flows of energy that are surrounding this current planet form where you are existing. Therefore, you also are immersed in this energy known as the pattern of water and you are able to understand the depth and the difference within layers of the water. Perhaps you feel you are moving through certain areas of water and you are perceiving different elements within the water. Perhaps you feel you are holding out a hand and receiving a different sensation and of course this will be relating to your energy form and in turn into the actual physicality of you.

We withdraw you from that level of action.

In participating in that immersion you may also feel you have released energy from you and you would feel you have been cleansed and cleared and raised in awareness to seeing clearly. There are different elements existing throughout your timeline which in turn are affecting different layers of your physicality and in particular the layers which affect emotions and the energy systems relating to health and vitality. So, this immersion in the enhanced water levels is helping to balance and clear out what you have been exposed to recently. This indeed is part of the purification of you.

We shift your awareness now into a greater area within the Station. In this inner area, you will be perceiving transference of energy from where you are to directly link with other patterns of existence elsewhere from planet Earth. It is a perception that you will be sensing around you, where you have communication contact with the elements existing, many of which you are connecting with from known places where you have existed, where you have manifested to uphold areas of creative consciousness. You are being reconnected to those areas again, allowing you the opportunity to draw into you everything you need now in your expanded sense of awareness that you are already aware of in your current circumstances in your physicality.

In the expansion of course, you have shifted into the civilisation area referred to as the light cities. And therefore we have now drawn you into this deeper reconnection pattern where you will draw to you the way to work with the shifting energy levels around you. It allows you to expand your realisations and the intentions you have in how you interact with the civilisation as it is around you and how you can move it into realisation that you have already created the next level of existence.

We are assisting you to remember and to realise this shift that has already occurred around you.

Observing in a general perception sense the people you mix with in your daily activities - observing them gives you the opportunity from this viewpoint to identify the ones who have shifted a little as well with you and you will observe the others who have not been caught up in the upliftment and shift. Therefore, you will notice that some people will be moving away from where you are and from how you mix with people and you will maintain the level of support and connection with the beings you connect with in this higher state of existence. There is no need to feel loss. Nothing is lost. It is a shift in perception and a shift in location of your awareness and presentation of yourself.

You may be questioning what does this mean in your life pattern and we have given you the initial answer, that you will notice people have moved away, have changed in their attitude and no longer want to be part of existing in that state where you have been existing and you have moved or you have changed in some way even where you continue to exist. It is how you perceive what is around you. Even in your own dwelling spaces you may observe the changed frequency, the different light and patterns observed around you. Make a conscious choice to move into that and you will then meet up with many of the beings existing in that other dimension that you now will be able to observe and have greater communication with.

You are indeed achieving clarification and clearance of energy patterns in you and through you and this has been our purpose in these ongoing sessions with you.

Draw your attention and focus now around me and we again restore your presence into the receiving area of the Station. You will feel the support you have in this linkage which continues and I withdraw now, Beloved

Orem out “

Thank you, Orem, for this further expansion and information as to what has happened since our previous gathering with you as a group.

Now, everybody, it is time to draw this around you to absorb it and integrate it into you in every pattern. You may have been aware of some resistance in you in some way. Now you can willingly accept the energy, because you have been experiencing it in this session and, like me, you may have experienced it as something wonderful and already be feeling the clearness and the lightness around you.

Begin now the reconnection into all the layers of your manifested physicality unit on Earth, becoming aware of the place where you are receiving this transmission and the day and time. When you observe around you, are you sensing the difference in your own energy field and in what is around you? Feel the difference. Make it real. Make the difference the reality in you - clear in every channel throughout you.

Again, I thank you for being here, participating in this expansion and we are all supporting each other in this as well.

Now it is time for me to end this transmission through the Omega Communications Portal, so thank you, and Lightfully, I leave you now.

Please make sure you are fully present again in your surroundings

Lani
