Omega Communications Portal Transmissions

Hello and welcome, as you receive the energy which has already begun, because as soon as you link in with these transmissions you are together in the level of consciousness and the connections which enable you to move to assemble into the receiving area of the Station of Light. And more than that, it enables you to switch on the receptivity that you all have which can often be clouded in our daily existence.

So, take this opportunity to expand again back into the true essence of you - into the light body which will be here receiving the energy and information appropriate at this time.

You do need to allow the space for your body to relax and so that you are free of interruptions for this little inner journey of experience. Thank you.

"Greetings and welcome into this space.

We come around you and we describe to you the level of patterns of energy around you.

This is Orem addressing you in this space, welcoming you into this Station of Light, drawing your attention to the energy systems which are surrounding your planetary system currently, drawing your attention also to the fact that you have all drawn into the Earth planet energy to assist you at this time, especially because you have decided and chosen to do precisely this in this precise time element experience that you are focused in currently.

You have demonstrated your ability to connect into the portals which exist in dimensions of time and these expand and it is these dimensional areas that you access when you open your heart to receive back to central Source energy the encoded frequency patterns that would assist you now. Surrounding you in this area is this beam, or pattern, of light and as you are all assembled here you are within it, but you, as an individual entity of consciousness, will resonate with particular aspects of what you are enfolded in. These particular aspects are activating the different receptors and resonating principles within you.

The resonating principles are to do with your realisation and how you factor in experiences and how you analyse experiences and everything that you are exposed to, including environmental atmospheric patterns. When you realign back to the point of origin existence which is receiving the pure elements of Source Creation, you are redefining the analysis and how you interpret and how you allow the energy pattern to assist you.

Everything exists there to assist you to maintain your presence on Earth currently and to envelop the impulses and encoding elements which are there to enhance you, to clear you from different patterns which may limit you in any way. We have been drawing this to your attention in many ways with every session that you enter into as you reconnect with this Station of Light.

The dimensional coordinates have always existed and you knew about these because they were part of your consciousness field and everything which is contained in that which you drew into you as you evolved in stages from birth to the present time. There are many supporting you in this state who have observed you and assisted you from the moment of your entry into the Earth dimensions and this includes before you entered into the cellular structure which created the body form you inhabit now. This will indicate to you the journey you have been on, some of the choices you have made and underlying all of that is the intention, the impulse, to expand, to realise more of your existence and the patterns of life and what creates patterns and galaxies and what is necessary for you to participate in, in your current focus.

Changes of course are experienced because you choose different aspects for you to manifest for yourself and depending on how that connects with other individuals' manifestation process, then the realities are created. There are multiple realities. Those of you present here are mostly focused on creating a higher functioning reality and this also is contained in the memory codes of your pure consciousness state and that is which you brought forth from your point of origin existence.

You may be experiencing shifting through the dimensional patterns you have experienced to reconnect completely back to that existence of your point of origin and where you were stationed in that reality, and this is for you also to clear some of the intuitive memory and patterns that have come around you.

To clear them of the accumulations which you experience in the Earth civilisation where you are. You are needed to be clear so you totally bring in the pattern from Source Creation.

What is occurring around you now is further consolidation of the patternal dimensional understanding and this allows you to be much more aware of the different states of supporting energy systems around you. You may also be aware of that which does not support the true alignment pattern that you have and connection. Your focus needs to be on that pure element of you and the energy and light systems you chose to bring in with you to assist the upliftment process and the evolutionary process. You are needed in this. when you are in this state of consciousness you are experiencing in this session, you are completely immersed within clarity, clarity in every way through your energy systems, through your thought patterns, through emotional patterns.

You are aware also that you experience different patterns of life which can leave an imprint in your energy field and these many patterns go through a continual process to redefine what is needed for you now and what can be released and cleared from your current focused experience. These patterns can be clouding the true aspect of you, so as you realise this, you become more closely connected with the overall galactic communication level here and this is also connected into multi-dimensional fields, multi-galactic fields and civilisations. You connect only to the ones where you have previously, or continuously, exist. Therefore, your sense of expansion becomes very realised in your perception in this area.

Now, bringing your attention back within the Station of Light, and you are in the presence of the Council of Light supervising occurrences around the planet you are on currently, you are being made aware of entranceways and Beings such as you are supervising the clearance, because some of these entranceways are similar to how you would experience getting rid of your rubbish.

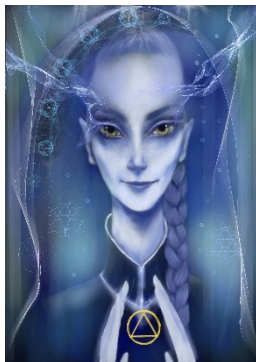

There has been the intention that Earth could be receiving rubbish. Drawing your attention to this, you are taking part in closing those entranceways.

You are also part of the protection formation of Beings for this planetary system. Do you realise that? Every time you strengthen your bio-energy shield which you accepted from Source Creation, you are performing that same function around the planetary system. This is part of your essence of existence here. You are also participating in activating to a greater extent, many of the areas that you could discern as Portals of Light and these also are participating in the overall upliftment and upgrading of the planetary system in accordance with other Beings present here, some of whom have made themselves known to you in the sessions. I bring forward that knowledge to you to help you reinforce that in you.

The intention of your presence in this particular visitation to the Station is already fulfilled. We see this because we see your energy field again aligned, strengthened, cleared. Remember this.

I withdraw now

Orem out “

“Ulea here again with you and I am also referring to the presence of the Council of Light around you and they are working with many of you as an individual to assist you to be clear of some of those patterns referred to where you draw into the Earth space different reality fragments and these are those that are called the limitation or the entanglements of your energy field.

So this process is continuing for you and this is simply because there are some of you linking into this particular transmission who have not been aware that there is the need to disentangle from you other energy frequencies that interfere or limit you in any way. It is just a clearance of that which you have allowed to come forward into you. Some of you refer to this as vows that were made from other life experiences, or weaknesses or damage to your conscious energy field.

So again this has occurred for you in this transmission - the clearance, the strengthening - and it is appropriate now for you to restore your energy self back into your physicality as it exists in the Earth plane.

Thank you - each and every one of you. “

Lani addressing you again. Thank you Ulea, Council of Light and Orem and all of the other Beings. I also thank You for allowing yourself to be clear and to participate in bringing light, patterns of clarity, into the Earth energy system. It is all needed. It is all part of who you are and I acknowledge this.

Now take in a breath and as you do that, realise you are completely grounded and integrated into and around your current physical body. Allow the changes to occur from the clearance you have experienced. This is all that is needed at this time, so I end this transmission through the Omega Communications Portal.
