"Welcome. Welcome, indeed.

Orem addressing you and I draw you further into the deepening state of your perception and the deeper state of you is that which we recognize as your essential energy body and the consciousness that you are. It is important for you to acknowledge that you are consciously present within and around the physical locality or physical body form.

At this time with the changes occurring and you may experience this along with the words delivered to you, you are within a spiraling energy form and in many cases this serves to cleanse and clear your energy field and as it does that, it is speeding up the cycles of the frequency patterns through you and around you. You may feel that your sense of that which you identify as yourself and that is the identification as a person, as a body form and having a particular life pattern, changes. Because of this change that is occurring around you and this energy formation around you, we are caring for you, we are monitoring the process. The process we refer to with this is an energy exchange very deeply within the core energy channel of you.

This is having the effect of clearing and changing and more activation. Do you acknowledge that? Do you appreciate hearing the word "activation"? That gives you the sense of a deepening and more energy factors coming into your reality, into a transformative state. During this patterning that you are receiving there is also a transport in process for you, moving you away from the closeness and the pattern closely around planetoid Earth and moving you into another state of existence.

You are encircled by many of the Beings here who are very interested to observe you and what you bring forward in all of the experiences you have gained and stored in your energy field. They are interested to understand the life pattern you are living, how that has changed in the extension of your process of your evolvment and they are also able to observe other areas of you who are moving in and out of the visitations into a physical form and as such, there is a movement of many of the aspects of you. In a sense it is realigning some of the patterns that have been coming to your awareness. These patterns are other realities with experiences from those other realities and so these are all observed as a pattern that is appropriate to the individual essence of you as it is presented into the gathering space here.

From the observation, patterns are recognized that are out of balance or not resonating with the higher quantum field of manifested civilizations, manifested places to enjoy and experience flow of movement and expansion of creation. There are many different aspects involved in this, naturally, you will understand and they serve to assist the individual Being who contains the greater consciousness field into a realignment process and as part of that, there is a stepping up in the evolvment process. This also is part of this spiral of energy that came in around you.

It is detaching the aspect of you in the current formation and civilization of the aspects that you know already are being released and cleared from the pathways that many people have been following without understanding what was occurring and as the energy comes into uplift and clear the patterns and pathways, more understanding is gained and individuals then realise they have the opportunity to change what has been presented to them, to change the pathway. Each of you will understand this as it relates to your individual pathway and presence.

Lani linking with you at whatever time or date you link in to receive this. Time and distance do not figure into the configuration of you as a conscious Being of Light, so it could be past, present or future as we think about those terms when you are receiving this.

Are you ready to step into the receiving state? Take in a natural breath, focusing on that, as you do that you are not focusing on other thoughts or what is around you and instead you focus within the gathering present within the Station of Light. I feel we are with a vast number of Beings here. So we must be called in at this particular moment, or intersection of various elements that contribute to the bringing forward and connecting in with the Station of Light and the Beings of Light.

Be fully present and focused in this state, in this dimension.

This is a reminder but it is always assistance for you to recognize the patterns that are now available for you to consciously change, to transform by the interpretation and the absorption of this energy pattern presented around you. You are being given assistance and they are similar to processes, patterns and pathways connecting communicating patterns into you. These become realized in your thought patterns and in your individual body responses.

There has been observed that many of you have been disturbed by the fluctuating energy pulses Earth is receiving, along with other planets that encircle solar ray portal and therefore those ones who have come to assist from other Galactic manifested states understand and observe and as always, the focus is upon those on Earth who are ready to accept the higher calibration of your energy pattern.

You could understand this simply to be clearing away the old patterns around you and you are being fed with a more concentrated energy field around you. As a result of this you will be recognizing that many people are not close to you following the absorption of this energy until and of course, if, they also accept the similar light pattern frequency for them. To them it will seem that you have moved away or you have shifted out of their close patterns, that you are no longer there, simply because of the energy field that you accept is changing your pattern of frequency and this does appear to other people who have not shifted, that you have disappeared. You have simply changed the frequency pattern of you as you continue to draw yourself into the resonating field that is a different pathway and pattern of existence.

There is also the aspect that others will be drawn to you who will physically assist you in many different ways. Be watchful of this and you will recognize the intention of people because you will feel the vibration that each one has, or perhaps groups have.

The fulness of the vibration also you will be able to recognize if it is in the pathway of freedom and upliftment and that pathway presents specific energy patterns that you resonate with.

This is letting you know what is happening around you. If you are not ready for this, you will receive it when you are ready and of course, the readiness means that then you understand it completely and you feel it and you change with it.

This is the time of change for you. It has been spoken about in many different ways in our sessions with you and this deepens the connections in your particular energy field that surrounds you. Remember, this is often presented to you as an energy grid, an energy matrix and there are points in that which connect very easily to receive the incoming energy that we refer to, from those who are assisting you. There are many aspects of you assisting you also. There is an expanded field incorporated in the assistance team that you have.

This was to assist you and it is now appropriate for you to be aware of your positioning within the receiving area of the Station here.

I leave you with this

Orem out “

Thank you, Orem.

I am also aware there are many different Beings around those of us who are gathered here and even as I observe this, you who came in with the other ones gathered here, there are many coming and going. That indicates to me that as you come in, you take what is appropriate for you in an energy absorption way and then you leave. You can come back in and out whenever you make the conscious link to receive the energy information presented.

This was this energy that you have been enfolded in, bring it around you. Perhaps you still feel the swirling vortex of energy around you above your body of light down to beneath your feet. Bring this into your physicality and feel where your body is that you are still receiving this swirling, spinning, vortex of energy around you, down to beneath your feet and into the earth. I think we will understand more of what this is in our own way as the realizations work through us.

In your own time take in a conscious breath and anchor all of this deeply in your energy field, everywhere throughout out. Make sure you feel it within the core energy essence of you, your energy body and your physical body, right out into your extended energy field. In its own time that vortex will settle down, so make sure you feel completely balanced as you bring yourself into the moment of Earth time. Thanks for taking this in and being here. This concludes this session. Enjoy this new pattern of energy for you.

Lani ❤️
