Omega Communications Portal

Source Code

I am Lani opening the Omega Communications Portal to facilitate this journey across time and space, connecting into the Station of Light and all of what that means in the multi layers of existence. To open and begin this session, be as relaxed as you can, allow every breath you take in to relax the body and in this way it prepares your consciousness that we can identify as your body of light, to come easily, simply, immediately in the receiving area of the Station of Light.

Here we are, as One and so we begin this session in this way today.

"We are One. You are One. You are here in the Oneness of Creation. Welcome into this space, beloved, Orem addressing you again and bringing you more fully into this awareness of who you are and indeed, who you are is not a name or a label. Who you are is present in the consciousness state that you have moved into here with us, and so we continue the inner journey to assist you to remember – remembering the energy field that you proposed would be the ideal energy to bring into your life pattern, as you recognize what a life pattern is within a specific form.

Your original intention to bring into manifestation a body form which would be the base unit for you, your presence as a conscious Being, is at that space, at that conjunction of many dimensional intersections and gatherings of energy fields where you are initially able to access a greater field than you have accessed in a conscious fashion previously in the current form that we recognize you as. We recognize you in the present current form. We also recognize you in many other aspects you have existed as and in so doing we are recognizing the essential core energy pattern that you are and that you bring in from the original point of Creation. You could liken this to realizing there is a Source Code for you manifested into various life patterns where you served to implant different concepts and energy fields and all of this brings you into your present existence and what you have brought into it, to assist you to facilitate your original purpose

Your prime source code of course, is part of that original purpose because when you align completely with that purpose, you align with the prime source code that is Creation and that of course is a complexity which is contained in the concept of what that is. Every time you connect with that you are accessing the precise elements, the information patterns or codes or processes as they are labelled in your common language and in accessing it, you bring it directly into you.

Many of you have experienced discomforts, out of alignment processes, so this is your opportunity again to access the prime source code. This is essentially one of the main purposes of you connecting in, in this way. It is to remind you of this. Even in the gathering and your presence here with us in Oneness, you more readily access the prime elements for you. These are more than what you would recognize as your normal bodily functions. These elements are necessary to sustain the bodily elements and beyond that, they are necessary elements for you to utilize your communication into the greater consciousness fields.

As we bring these words to you, become aware of the gathering of other Beings you may recognize that they have different forms than you do, yet their intention is the same, to support the Beings who have come into Earth and you have placed yourself here and you have placed yourself into an energetic grid – the energy matrix of consciousness. As you communicate the link with the gathered Beings who have come through portals across or through time space dimension, then you realise there is a great synchronization pattern occurring, the synchronization of course brings into the field of resonance that you recognize, into a clear pattern. Many of you are aware of this, perhaps in different ways. Essentially a clear pattern is what it is, and the concept of that clear pattern needs to be held in your awareness and you could remind yourself that you are functioning in the clear pattern of One Source, of the prime energy field for Earth.

You will be aware of constant changes occurring in the planetary system, in the environment of it, in the natural flows of energy around and within and through the planet.

There is clear connection between your core energy essence and the core energy essence of this planet form that you came in consciously to be present in this intersection of the gathering through and beyond measurement of time. This is relative to the acknowledgement of the concept of oneness, the concept of expansion, so that in the expansion process you become more aware of Oneness and the need to be vitally present and within the essence of that energy field of consciousness.

This does not mean that you move into a lower, denser field. The concept of bringing your presence into a lower energy civilization is simply a concept that has been implanted into the consciousness field of a general layer of existence. As you have realized who you are, and you have connected to your prime source, then you automatically have expanded your consciousness field into a higher pattern, a higher frequency and this is relevant in your current experiences because it is shifting a process that had been implanted within the conscious mind pattern of existence in a very humanistic and egotistical pattern and while you may recognize that, you would also need to be recognizing your principal origination source code.

This is another alignment for you into that. There may be successive alignments and as you absorb and integrate what is contained in the alignments in the expansion of your consciousness, then you realize there is the higher pattern existing and that you can communicate more clearly with the galactic aspects of you and the ones you are aware of who are presently observing you all and the planet and other planets in this system that you have become aware of. It is one source of information for you so that you better understand the shifting of timelines which are civilization experiences, and the movement of restoring you into the pattern that you have carried forward into many different life experiences of being present to bring in the appropriate energy field that may be needed, that you may be conscious of a need for alignment or clearance in any way.

This is the pattern and purpose for your presence as it is. You may function through different modalities and so as you come into this space it will be reinforcing, strengthening, a pattern you already are aware of, of your positioning, of the sense of existence and pre-existence for you before this life pattern, that existed in multi-dimensional realities. As you become aware of that, you will be accessing the necessary information for you which will become implemented within the mainstream civilization.

There is, in effect, a higher level which comes in as a pattern of clearness, sometimes it is likened to balancing, balancing out what had become evident and which many people had become hooked into, attached to. Every time you step into the pure element of creation you are offering into the energetic matrix a clear pattern. The balancing, or stabilization, is a component of the expansion of consciousness. You are doing this. You are manifesting – your term would be the advanced civilization. It simply exists and the awareness of yourself and other Beings is being brought into that, so it becomes a constant energy pattern within you and your energy field and therefore the energy matrix for the collectiveness of the planet. Streams of energy are being beamed upon the Earth, streams of consciousness. Streams of consciousness contain energetic Beings, they contain the presence, they contain the arrival of Beings, they contain the departure of others who have served their purpose and their purpose may not any longer be relevant because of the exchange and integration of the higher aspect of creation.

We continue to use these words because they are part of the concept – words such as higher, expanded, improved – they are all part of the concept that you exist as, so remember to immerse yourself into that, in a continuous way.

Have you established this pattern in your dwelling space and in the spaces where you spend most of your hours of existence within a daily timeframe?

Have you established that pure element and aspect? You would feel it because it is part of feeling home and home being your essential point of origin as part of the prime consciousness, the stream of existence of consciousness.

This was our deliverance to you in this time, so now become aware of your presence again in the initial gathering space as you absorb all of this and maintain the expansion within you, enlivening you. We acknowledge this as you.

Orem out “

Again, it is for me, known as Lani, to stabilize your presence here and I acknowledge you also as we work together in this expanded energy field of consciousness.

I feel the patterns brought forward merge into the overlaying consciousness field of Earth where it is needed. It is like an automatic balancing and functioning, just as water will flow downward in its natural state. It is as simple as that with the higher energy that comes in. You may feel this over you in your presence here and now feel it as you bring your focus and attention, intentionally back into your body form, into the basic unit of your physicality. Breathe it into you. Remember, every breath you take in, especially when you are conscious of the breath you take in, you are breathing all of this into your energy, into every atom and energy field. Every single cell within you is like a separate galaxy itself, held within the pure intention of the prime energy codes of existence. I thank you for this and the galactic beings who continue to support us.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.

Lani ❤️
