Resurrected. Coordination

Hello, Lani with you on this journey into expanded fields of consciousness, into other dimensions of existence which you have known.

As you tune in today and link with the highest aspect of you, of your energetic consciousness, realise how easy it is to move into the gathering space, the receiving/transition space in that area defined as the Station of Light. Light is everything Light is energy and you are energy. This is why it is so easy to be in this space and allow the transitions to occur as you receive the energy and the energy is informing you in some way that you will draw into you.

Are you ready to begin this session?

"I am the one known to you as Orem and greet you and we all greet you, those of us who are with you and surrounding you in your experiences here with us and your experiences within the body form and the environment of the civilization you have chosen to be within.

You are in the phase of adjusting to an altered dimensional energy system. There has been a fractal alignment and repositioning. This means there are aspects within the consciousness energy field, of which you are, and this has been reaching out and connecting into different energetic systems being drawn closer in consciousness to where you are based. We refer to your base as the planetoid you are visiting us from, whereas in other experiences you would have been visiting us from a different dimensional base planetoid. In this instance you are connecting in through many different lines of activity and many of those had subdivisions within them and there were fractions of those which had become enlivened at different energetic sequences which come together.

Allow your awareness to remember. Remembering brings it all into a stable position so that you will be aware of the energy frequency patterns moving out and joining into the other necessary pathways and patterns to create the balanced and unified presentation, firstly of you, because you being aware of this, are materializing the pattern that is necessary moving forward.

Moving forward requires you to open your field of expanding consciousness and to connect at the interface of consciousness with the infinite source of creation and this flows into your energetic field and through the different pathways which may have become fractured in some way but being restored also with this balancing around you and drawing into you the corrected timeline and consciousness fields for you.

This will be manifesting in your energetic field around the physical form, so that the physical form will become enlivened and more greatly connected into the expansion field. The words are representing to you the changing and shifting in the consciousness fields that you are experiencing, you are aware of this often, so you will be aware that you need to come into a balanced position, totally coordinated within the body form as it is coordinated with the energetic structures. The further you extend your awareness into the extended consciousness field of you, will enable you to be more balanced, more precisely located and receiving communication in the levels that are appropriate for you.

During this short deliverance already, you will have been aware there has been a shift in the energy matrix surrounding you and which of course is an integral part of your existence. That shifting of that energy matrix is in coordination with the overlaying shifting pattern of where you are placed within the organized system of the planetary system that you are familiar with and the greater galaxy which it is connected into and is part of that consciousness field, that energetic field.

Along with this, you are greatly aware of the shifts within and upon the Earth structure surface and deeply within the core energy essence of the planetoid there is the origination point of connection to the energetic source codes. You are receiving this within your energetic alignment. This is creating movement and realignment where it is necessary within your core energy structure. This is the first principle of life energy that you are responding to, reconnecting to. This is the pure element. Many of you focus on other lifetimes – previous lifetimes you may think of them as – where you have accumulated experiences and again the imprints within the energy layers of your body unit.

Restoring you to the prime connection, the initial focus for life, enables the separation from you of all that is not relevant for you in this phase of shifting and coordination of you.

We understand this is an intense information set that you are receiving within these words within this encoded information packet you are receiving. Continue to work with it. Continue to let it clear old patterns away from you without the need that may be put upon you to explore it.

The exploration which you are doing inherently, is to follow the pathway back to the original point of creation for you and the prime purpose and energy. This frees up, or unlocks, certain processes within you necessary, and it frees the limitations. Part of this also is that you are receiving the correct codes for all of the systems which maintain the base unit of you.

You are an essential system connected into the overall matrix of consciousness. Acknowledge this.

This is the deliverance to you, at this time. Allow it all to unfold within you and throughout you.

Orem out “

Lani again with you and I have that one with me known as Ulea. She always brings in a lighter energy field because she is not delivering the full code sequence. We are here to help this be understood and received by you.

“As I continue to work with you, as Ulea, then you will be feeling the energy shifting throughout you and around you.

Remember the connections. Remember to connect always with the consciousness field of Creation, of the original source energy of you. That is the pure vital essence.

This is what these presentations are offering you and enveloping you within this. We have continued with this information and many of you may be feeling you have returned and receiving the same information. When you go beyond the words and you respond to the energy field, then you understand why the words are necessary as the steps, the pathways, the connections.

As you receive this, other ones who are connected with you in any way are also receiving this energetic field of pureness.

You may feel this is what is called resurrection and it is resurrecting the prime codes, the initial pureness, away from all contaminants and interference. Enjoy this clearness that is you.

We have travelled with you. You may remember being with us in other frameworks of existence and experience.

We remind you now to bring all of this back through your energetic core essence, back into your energetic field around your base physical body unit. I withdraw now.

Ulea out. “

Lani again speaking and I give my thanks to Ulea, Orem and the other Beings who are part of these presentations and I honour You who are receiving these energy transmissions.

Let them fill you, because you chose to bring them into you, all the energy systems to be resurrected, as Ulea said.

The prime codes, the prime energy information and of course during our lifetimes, this lifetime, we have all absorbed and been taught a great deal of information, but some of that is outdated. So, allow your realizations to expand you, your individual inspirational information packets.

Be totally clearly aligned and connected into the energy matrix of consciousness. Thank you.

This is ending this session through the Omega Communications Portal.

Remember to take in a conscious breath and bring your attention back into your body, feeling your expanded field of consciousness and be aware of the day, your locality, the time as we measure the space time in this Earth reality.

This brings you fully connected from the higher dimensional fields right into that sphere of energy beneath your feet connecting you into the consciousness that is this Earth planet.

Thank you.

Lani
