“Orem coming forward to address you.

We greet you and surround you in this space where you are assembled, surrounding you in that field of energy expanding your perception into the energetic sphere in which you exist.

We refer in particular to the energetic sphere identified as your home base planet for this existence. Regardless of whether you view that as parallel or alternative realities, this is where you exist in this energetic support system, the energetic framework, and this is where you focus your intention of being consciously present and presenting the information patterns which you receive directly through the streams of energy and information from Source. This is it.

Therefore, balance yourself. Bring yourself into this presence in this particular aspect of your receptivity. Everything that you have experienced, everything that you have become in following experiences and adapting to the energy frequencies will be receiving energy which is a sense of filtration for you. When you are fully aligned with the streams of energy and information which you chose to bring into the present situation, the present civilization you experience, then this is where your impulses come in, this is where the clear information streams surround you, surrounding all the levels of you that you may identify as thought forms, emotional fields.

Remember, any limitations are those which you have allowed yourself to receive to some degree in your perception and in your livingness.

When you fully align with your original point of creation, this is the way that you allow everything to be presented into those penetrating energetic fields and your patterns of existence within that intelligent consciousness that you are, applies the levels of energy field – clearance, if you like – rebuilding, if you prefer that, if this is what you have come into to receive – and thus you are clearly connected into the overlaying and surrounding framework. The energy systems that you present yourself into.

These energy systems also include what we have brought to your attention previously as the support systems and this will include those Beings known as the Council of Light and many of you are coexisting with those support systems. They may have presented themselves to you in some way – perhaps a phrase, perhaps a thought, perhaps a vision, through your internal sensory patterns. So, as you embrace this, embrace yourself within the core energy essence that is you and that connects directly into the energetic support system for you.

Identify yourself as the energetic sphere of creation, similar to you might identify the Earth Being as the energy support system. Energy support systems are energy and so the vibrations that you respond to reveals to you the existence of the patterns of creation that you resonate with in your new terms, or realizations, of your core energy presence.

This is preparing you for the ongoing shifting which is occurring in your consciousness field and the consciousness field that is the Earth Station. There is alignment which of course reveals movement, shifting. More patterns of clear realization are appearing around people as their energy field receives the streams of vital essence available to all.

Omega Communications Portal

Energy support system. Love / Evolve

Hello, Lani with you on this inner journey experience and connections and inter-connections coming to you through the Omega Communications Portal.

Lani speaking especially to you at this time as you synchronize your energy field to your pure state of origin – your purest point of existence. Some may say that is your sole point of creation.

As you do that, with your intention you can focus your presence entirely in the receiving area within the Station of Light.

And so we begin.

Remember that there is, as you would use the word, pureness, in those streams of energy information. You identify that. You are perfectly placed, situated in your way of receiving the streams of energy and information to assist an essential expansion which flows through your connections. These may be connections to ancestral patterns or connections to various underlying and existing always, civilizations functioning in the higher light field. They will also be connections to other citizens surrounding this Earth space.

So, there is the flowingness from the core energy essence of creation through you and other ones like you, and throughout the unfolding of the timelines, or the experiences, around everybody.

Understand from this, there is no need to put out force fields toward others in attempt to change any situation that you may be involved in. Bring your attention back to your core energy essence and the streams of light energy information from your pure source.

Touching that now, you will be aware of the communication you have with more of the Galactic Beings. It is similar to a gravitational connection. That is the harmonic resonance often referred to. This is your connections available to you. You are working in the support systems throughout civilizations where you are existing.

You will be considering this. You will be interpreting it. You will resonating with the elements that are appropriate for you. You are surrounded in this. You are loved and we refer to the love as support.

In receiving this, we bring your awareness back to being present in the receiving area of this Station.

You will be aware also of all of the supporting services coexisting in this Station. It is another way for you to draw into you freely, powerfully, because you are consciously present here, all of the information, all of the patterns to continue the support for you.

This is it. So this presentation in this session is complete for you and we withdraw now.

Orem out “

“Thank you, Orem. Lani again with you. I am able to take you with me on a quick visitation to various elements of creation in the fields of existence.

You may be aware of perceiving yourself in different worlds. By that I mean you may be aware of the different colours around you, different types of structures, different people appearing, acknowledging you because you are visible in whatever placement you find yourself to be in. You may even have the sense that you have a different appearance from your current earthly physical form as you move into various worlds. I am aware this is to remind you of some of the activities you have already been functioning as, or carrying out, and you will be drawing into you the most appropriate elements for you to use in your current presentation in your current body form.

It is as simple as that. Draw in those lines of communication and information to you and clear away any self-doubt, anything that you have accepted that may harm your true essence and even though the personality or the way you think about yourself.

In this session you have been reminded that you are a pure conscious intelligent Being and you are supported in that field we recognize and label “love” and it may be much than what we think or what we have been trained to understand as that particular word. It is part of the word “evolve” and this is why you have been presented into this and other sessions as part of that evolvement for you.

Bring all of this back into you now. Take in a conscious breath from above your head to the tips of your toes and bring all this amazing energy that you are into your present lifeform and life as you know it.

It has been a pleasure bringing you into this field of energy in this session.

I remind you again to take in a conscious breath and orient yourself – validate yourself – back within this body form, around the body form, in the current Earth space time as we measure it. Even that changes perceptively and science measures the change in time. When you consciously align yourself to the present moment engaged in time – that is the right time for you.

I share in this amazing celebration of who we are.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Thank you and again, thank you for Sharing this and Liking it, and Subscribing. We will meet again.

Lani
