The Shift. Matrix alignment. Central axis point

Lani with you, helping you to withdraw from the external world and do this by taking in a conscious breath, a simple, natural, conscious breath. As you breathe out, feel your body is relaxing and your essence moves into the Station of Light.

So, here we are gathered in the initial receiving space and state – it is one – the state of consciousness exists in this receiving space. Focus yourself here and be aware of the energy coming in around you – the Beings of Light – as we name them and as we perceive them, always existing here and with you.

“We greet you as you come into this space, into the collective consciousness field that we address you through and as. The main spokes Being of course is Orem and yet we are one voice, including the galactic presence of Beings who come from different dimensions and you might say, different experiences and civilizations existing in multiple worlds, multiple dimensions. The focus is here in this space with you. You are the focus of this energy field in this day.

As you receive this, are you aware there is an orientation point that has shifted for you? Have you been orienting yourself, aligning yourself with the cosmic consciousness field? That energetic field known as the cosmic matrix that is energy that is consciousness, that is a field. You are being synchronized with the essential essence and elements of that field.

Already, the shift has taken place that many of you have been working toward. You have been aware of it in many different ways, spoken to you in different realities about the collective shift of consciousness.

When we say “collective” there is of course individual choice and elements. As you are here, your choice has been to connect into that network of cosmic intelligence and so that energy field that has been surrounding you throughout this current body form experience is being and has been, adjusted and aligned through multi dimensional fields of energy.

You are being informed of this to help you realize what you have been experiencing currently – and by that we suggest to you it could be 20 or 30 of your measuring years, but currently you have been aware of the balancing, the shift. You might consider it to be a shift in power and yet the only power that exists is the powerful presence of your Soul presently existing and clearer connection within your awareness of that which you are now. This has come into the frequency pattern of the quantum cosmic energy field that we are speaking about. The energetic matrix has now moved into an alignment and this is what you are aware of.

You may be aware of this energetically throughout your individual Beingness. That is, you may feel that your structure is more aligned and because it is aligned there will be freeing up of areas that may have been concerning you – maybe feeling stiffness or inability to act as freely as you thought you could be. All of this is part of this alignment process and this, as we move further into the presentation of you into it, means that you are passing through a complex dimensional portal situation. Rephrasing this, there may have been many opportunities presented to you energetically or physically and you have been choosing what is feeling the true connection for you as a Soul Being. This has led you directly into this alignment situation where you are moving through the main portal.

Realizing this is also part of your present situation of consciousness where you may feel the shift in the pattern around you, extending beyond your physical formation into the layers of the energetic field around you which in our language is named also the human matrix surrounding you. This is all the memories of your experiences collected on a soul level and on an individual level in your current life pattern. Therefore, that energy field matrix closely around you is also receiving the energy field from the cosmic matrix.

We referred in the previous gathering that many of the situations and the matters concerning you are simply being dissolved because they do not exist in this very strong clear connection of the cosmic consciousness field.

All of this is your pathway. All this is necessary so that you are able to acknowledge your Soul presence and the energy that you proposed to bring in and connect fully into what you might consider your current civilization experiences. What you consider your current civilization experiences with your feet on the earth, is only one dimension of the greater pattern existing.

Remember, our emphasis has always been to expand your consciousness field into cosmic dimensions. These layers of reality are all receiving the cosmic matrix energy field and this is passing through all the other layers that you have been aware of and unaware of and yet they have been influences upon you.

Directly acknowledging your presence, your Soul Presence, also is fulfilling your intention and you are filled with the potential of the creativity, of establishing this clear connection in this presence in this moment in this gathering.

Feel the raying out from you, or the ripple effect, from you in this moment, merged between the physicality stationed on Earth and you in your energetic field stationed here in this Station of Light. The ripple effect is one ripple effect of the high cosmic field all throughout creation, not limited simply to where you have your current physical body form. There is the connection between all aspects of you all – everywhere – existing in creation. The connections are flowing freely the energetic source, the supply system, the support system. Shifting many bodies into correct positions.

Enjoy this multi dimensional connection and existence.

If you are perceiving this as being in a void, this is the central axis point from the beginning, from the origin, from your point of origin. In effect, the rippling throughout creation exists from this origination existence.

In this quiet space you are receiving and you are radiating that which you label Light. We do use the words that you will easily understand.

Absorb everything that is of vital essence for you. Bring it into your energy field where you are receiving this with us in the Station.

Thus this session is complete for what we needed to have you experience.

Orem out “

“Acknowledged Orem, with gratitude. This is Lani again with us all and while I am speaking as myself, I am aware of that infinite space we were taken into.

Be aware that you are taking it all into you – absorbing it quite naturally. I liken this to the earth simply accepting rain. It doesn't resist it. It just is part of the natural process and so we are receiving what is the natural process in the expansion of consciousness and an evolutionary shift.

Perhaps this is very significant for you at this time.

Be aware now of already taking in a conscious natural breath and as you breathe out, bring all this in from above your head, right through your body form and the energy matrix around your body form, right into you to the soles of your feet and into the energy field of this planet

You will be aware of the shift in the layers of energy field through you and around you. It feels very clear to my interpretation and sensations throughout this session.

Thanks for being here. This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Remember to focus where you are receiving this and bring yourself back into awareness of current Earth time as we measure it. This means you are bringing all of your consciousness into the present moment, balanced, anchored, very strong powerfully present in your Soul. I celebrate this as you. Thank you.

Lani
