Earth repositions with expanding consciousness. Cosmic intelligence infusing technology

Hello, Lani speaking, welcoming you into this space, into first of all, my meeting space where we meet without you needing to physically travel. The connecting threads bring us together into the same space. As we assemble together and link together in that great consciousness matrix that we are connected through, then become aware that it is very easy to move into the centre of your being, the core energy of you, and to connect into the central communication core area of the Station of Light. Perhaps in another dimension it has another name but we can identify with the Station of Light where there is a meeting and greeting of cosmic intelligent beings and those of us existing as Earth intelligent beings. There will be others coming in from other generations or other areas of existence – perhaps we call them different planetary systems.

It simply is an assembly of beings receiving the energy frequency pattern that is a continuation of clearing us and keeping us connected into the pure system of cosmic intelligence. This is where we are assembled within the Station of Light. This is where we begin this inner journey today. Thank you.

“Indeed, as we come forward surrounding you in this space within this general existence within the energy field here, there is merging of consciousness fields. Of course, this means and acknowledges that there are different vibrational frequencies which you bring with you into this meeting space and as we deliver the opening words to you and I am known as Orem, we are assessing your energy fields and you will feel adjustments, clearance of anything in a sense that clouds your perception of what is here, and clouds your perception and linkage and communication with the higher field consciousness, cosmic intelligence consciousness from other star systems, from other places.

This Station of Light, as we have explained to you in other sessions, is an assembly point, a meeting point, it is like a translation point of energies coming in and you are always assessed as to your level of receptivity and activity of your cosmic soul presence within the current experiences throughout your living sphere known as planetoid Earth.

In this sense you are indeed important and the importance of bringing yourself into connecting into these streams of energy for you is to continue support for you.

To continue bringing you into the streams of vital essence, the codes, necessary for you to access, for you to continue to be creative and bringing in the concepts of the true creation space in you and through you and around you into the locality.

Do not be disturbed by what you might see around you that is happening to other people or what is disturbing you in the family unit or the wider systems of land spaces throughout your planetoid. Simply be aware that there are many situations that need to be receiving the higher consciousness field. It is all about reconnecting the beings who are present on Earth, who have chosen to come into presence within the body forms on Earth, it is always essential to help them see reconnection is available to the original processes.

Understand from this, some concepts or some information fed to you might talk to you about inferior souls or damaged souls. The soul is always pure. It is simply that the accumulation that it receives of previous generations in the blood line or previous situations or current situations, they have compromised part of the intelligent field that is to do with the mind, emotions, body – the consciousness of the body form – and that is relating to influences it senses. Part of your soul's presence is to infuse all the energy fields that have been compromised or damaged in some way with the cosmic light field. You will see this is the process of the informational fields we surround you in – to clear those pathways and patterns.

There are many of you who are receiving this recently who have found a new or clearer or stronger connection to your pure cosmic soul and the lines, the pathways coming to you. We witness this, so as we continue to bring you into closer and clear connection with all of that, you will find many circumstances will be changing, many of the situations involved in the circumstances or as what you call circumstances, experiences - there is a connection of words that come through as we are speaking about this – you will begin to see that the energy field that you relate to sees a higher pattern emerging and that higher pattern we refer to is part of the cosmic consciousness field. The energy matrix surrounding and above and beyond many of the lower levels of what is existing planetary-wide.

You are in a very interesting part of your life cycle, recognizing there is much you are facilitating as you clear your own pathways and this refers to the accumulations of your particular life cycle. As you clear those you emerge into what is already existing, explained to you previously many times of what is called light city civilization. Cities of light. Light field. You will find this word is utilized in many new constructions emerging in some of your cities, but they are referring to switching on a light system that is physically created, scientifically created, but much of that science and technology is not yet fully incorporating the cosmic grid. Realize that there is the opportunity of course in many of the technologies that have been lifted up and circulating within the atmosphere around the Earth, some of that technology can be infused with the cosmic energy field grid. Is this good news to you? Is this helping you to understand that there is a higher system in place so that at some point there will be the enlivening of this cosmic energy grid. This relates to the higher light field cities.

It is beginning to be self-assembling, in a way, a self-raising, correctness, coming into true alignment with what the cosmic intelligent source energy proposed, what the concept was for this beautiful land mass within the biosphere of the planet. As you know, the planet itself is always moving, it is repositioning, it is being pulled into a higher level simply as a result of the consciousness field you are connecting in with and you are contributing to, that is enabling the shift. There is also the pattern that the actual shift of the planetary being itself is enabling the higher consciousness field to come through to be accessed. It is all one pathway and pattern and this is what you are involved with. Are you remembering the aspect of your central soul intelligence that chose this particular life cycle that you are focused within and receiving this information pattern within and through? You will remember as you continue to access that original soul intelligence, you will be remembering other ways that you assisted populations to be consciously aware of higher patterns. It is a process that continues throughout creation, throughout the cosmos, so that means throughout other galactic systems. Everything is in a state of upgrading, of expanding into a brighter lighter consciousness state. It is very multi-dimensional. Your soul is multi-dimensional and it's a multi-cosmic process. You are involved in this very mighty process and you have always known this. You have been gathering information in the ways that have been available to you on the ground so to speak, in the life pattern. You have been gathering information in from stories presented to you. Some of these were ancestral stories and some were created with technology at the time. Always, everything you have to run through your cosmic intelligent system within your soul centre and your soul knows what is correctly attuned and what needs to be adjusted, so you reject misinformation that is presented in various ways to you in the life cycles. This is why you present yourself into presentations such as we are presenting to you. We acknowledge there are others working in the same energy framework. Even though you might be accessing the information in this central station of light, you are also connected into other areas and you will be drawing the appropriate information that is in resonance with your concept and your original soul intelligence and everything else you dismiss naturally because it doesn't resonate with you. There are many pathways, many styles, many steps offered but they should all be drawing you into your origination core energy station of your soul and that is in direct communication with source creation. As you realize this, then you realize that there are patterns in your energy field being dissolved away. This again is a continual process. As you expand into more of your original core soul, then there is more information and patterns released and revealed to you that they are no longer relevant. You have connected to the master soul code and this works through you.

We understand that this which are receiving as you listen to this is a high vibration frequency in your field which is why sometimes you have difficulty remembering the words but you always remember the state of consciousness, the energy field of it. This is why we do offer it also to you in words, some of you relate to seeing printed words, some relate to hearing it, or simply picking up the frequencies through the words. It will be unique to you. You are gathering this into you again and we observe this. We observe the frequency pattern around the Earth station vibrating to a higher frequency. Do not try to measure this as your technology delivers words and phrases and codes. This is beyond that, this is the level you bring into you cosmically. This is why we are with you, why we support you with the deliverances to you.

This is the deliverance at this time. I withdraw now

Orem out “

Lani speaking again and as I bring our attention back to where we are gathered in this core central area, begin the process of bringing this back into your conscious presence within your biological intelligent systems where you are presenting all this higher field frequency pattern. Quickly and easily bring yourself back. It is necessary to be conscious again of where your body form is located. You have taken in a clearer pattern to utilize this naturally because it arises from your soul intelligent systems. This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Thank you.
