Infinite Resources

Hello, this is Lani speaking to you. To begin today, let's do something different. Let's imagine, visualize, that we are gathered together around an open fire you have built up with pieces of trees, driftwood, stones and we are gathered around this fire. It could be on a beach or in a bush clearing, somewhere in nature and as you become aware of the lively flames, the warmth and companionship you will also be aware of the night sky and what you can see up there and how close you feel to the starfield, to the cosmic area that we see. Many galaxies out there amongst what we generally call the stars and planets.

So, as you shift in the expanded awareness of all that, now become aware that we are within the gathering space within the Station of Light. Peacefully, lovingly and simply presenting ourselves into this receiving space and state.

"Now you are with us gathered in this space as a collective group, Orem addressing you on behalf of our collective consciousness of the Beings who are here observing you, supporting you in the many ways that are available to us and to you through the constant stream of frequency patterns that you are presented with.

In presenting the streams through this session, you will be finding you are receiving a different value, a different energy feel to what you receive constantly in your daily activities. The energy streams here that surround you are present in an energy field that we draw you into within this space. It is a field of energy which connects you more easily and quickly into the transference of the energy frequency pattern of creation, of the life system throughout all existence, all dimensions, the dimensions that you may have been familiar with that are a different frequency to what you naturally reside in currently. All those dimensions still exist and still receive the frequencies of creation – the life force, the life field. So, the purpose of bringing you into this understanding in this session is to again remind you that you are surrounded in infinite potential of the creative life force, the life field.

Many of you who enter this space have felt a need that prompted you to search for specific vital elements in your life cycle, your lifetime, a deeper understanding, a clearance of patterns around you and we acknowledge you have found many different ways to assist yourselves and yet here you are receiving in this space.

This space, the energy frequency of this space, is resonating with you in this current experience beyond the sense of time that you dwell in. The energy frequencies of these dimensions do not respond to or do not measure time as you measure it as a cycle. The experiences here are all together in this presentation to you.

Following through this thread of information, you might observe yourself from a distance, from an overview point of your entire life cycle and how do you view that life cycle and how will you create the continuation of the life cycle.

The frequencies that contain the vital essence and elements for you are available for you here.

We are assisting you to expand and expand and expand and in the expansion of your awareness, your consciousness field, you are accessing the infinite supply of resources that are available for you. Again, there are many levels to resources that are available to you and how you view what resources are in your interpretation and in your application of utilizing resources and the frequency pattern of those. The vitality – the energy frequencies – which will of course manifest into different resources that are available to you.

There are the elements within your energy field and all the components that are required to maintain and sustain the biological unit of you and all these are also available here. If you are aware to the sensitivities of the frequencies here presented to you, you will become aware there is a difference in the pattern. There is an assimilation pattern, there is also a drawing out pattern through your energy pattern that is presented here as your life, as your body of light existence. It is an automatic process, because there is an element of your light body system which understands what is needed and automatically draws in the vibratory elements, the frequency patterns. These are what we are calling to you today, resources.

The supply here is what you have drawn to you to receive. If you were coming for certain information – you are receiving information, informing you of certain patterns that are needed that you understand that you observe and there is also the pattern you are observing and absorbing of the natural frequencies necessary for your energy form and your energy form will transmute this into the biological systems, the functions.

This is a multi-dimensional activity that you immerse yourself within as you engage within the frequency patterns here. This extends beyond Earth station. This extends into various other modalities and existences, so again, you are resonating with what is appropriate in every dimensional existence.

There is a selective sequencing engaged as a natural function of your prime purpose, your prime presence, your consciousness field. It is a natural selection of what is appropriate for your biological system. This refers also to the physical elements and what you call the energy or the metaphysical elements necessary. It is a combination that you exist in.

You may also be aware of the companions existing here who are appreciating your expansion into this field. It means that you are more aware of the cosmic beings, the cosmic presence of life and how expansive that is and how it relates to you in particular. There is an increase in your connections into the greater cosmic intelligence.

Even if you are tuning in and have entered in to participate in this session and you might be based off the planet or based somewhere different away from where most people are living, you are still absorbing on the multi-dimensional areas of existence and what is presented will apply to you in your higher intelligent selections.

Remember, that entering this space brings you into the precise connection to the cosmic intelligent pattern for ongoing life and expansion of life. It is another way to explore planetary systems right from where you are currently existing physically.

There is a natural balance. There is the natural order within cosmic creation and these systems, the order of the system, is available to all Beings. You will observe the ones who are not connected and this is part of your natural presentation into the civilization where you exist. You bring in alignment and balance. It is part of your energy field that you move around in, that you present everywhere.

This was the presentation to you at this time for you to absorb through your systems of light presented here. We consider that you have understood all this and you will naturally be assimilating it.

Until we gather again,

Orem out “

Lani speaking again. Thank you Orem. Orem introduced himself at the beginning as the presentation began, as he represents the collective Beings in this assembly area. The energy is familiar, of course, to you who present yourselves into this Station.

It is time now to gather all this energy in from wherever you expanded yourself out to in this session, bring it all back into your presence here. Remember, as we began around an open outdoor fire, so you come back through that doorway, through that positioning and you come back breathing yourself easily, freely and naturally back into your current body system and presence.

I am sure you will feel the difference from this session and the energies presented, that you drew upon and that you created. It is a way of using the cosmic resources to replenish you in every way.

Thank you for being here in this session and this ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Thank you.

Do make sure you are fully present, grounded where you are, experiencing life around you perhaps in a new way from a different viewpoint. It is wonderful. Thank you.

Lani
