Like a Tree ~ harnessing the Light Field for the environment

Hello, Lani presenting this to you and inviting you again to enter through this Omega Portal through my meeting space presentation and it enables you to more easily go into an altered state of consciousness to resonate with the cosmic frequencies, perhaps more than you do in your daily activities.

So remember, when you close your eyes you are shutting out the outside world and distractions and you are moving within to your true essence of life and light. It is your light essence, your consciousness that is light, that gathers with us in the receiving space of the Station of Light, ready to begin, to receive the information coming to you today. It might come through to you in new ways. You simply allow that to be.

"Welcome. Orem addressing you and representing the Beings here supporting you, observing you indeed, as we observe the alterations, as we observe the collective consciousness of the Beings of the Earth Station – the planet Earth station.

We remind you again that you are more than simply the physical Being – the state of physicality that you exist as currently. You are more than that. You are indeed an aspect of the cosmic consciousness individualized as your individual soul essence present in the present civilization and yet, your consciousness expands beyond that.

We remind you of many of the knowledgeable aspects of your own soul consciousness. What we remind you of and bring to your focus is what is needed for your current life span and indeed for the aspect of creation that is you in this current life span.

You create on many different levels in many different ways continuously as you live and interact with the environment around you. The environment of course includes relationships you have with the environment, with the way you live your life and in the way that you connect with the cosmic intelligent systems which inherently are your soul aspects.

Deviations from that then create imbalance and you would sense disturbances, so the implications here are for you to connect always to the cosmic frequency pattern.

We have told you before that as you gather into this collective consciousness you are more easily accessing the cosmic intelligent frequencies.

Do you feel this is more firmly anchored through you and you are more firmly present consciously within the Earth state – the Earth Station, bringing in the energy? You could relate to this as an image as if you were an enormous tree and you access the light field. You access it from a higher level than ground level and yet what you bring in is the necessary components that are beamed to you and in relation to the light field and you bring that down through you through your trunk, through your central system, deeply rooted into the Earth, into the ground, into the water flows. In a similar way, as you consciously connect to the cosmic frequency pattern, the source of creation, the light field – you are harnessing that, you are bringing it in through all the channels within you and deeply into the Earth energy system.

In this way you are creating in multiple ways. There are variables of course that you can bring in and understand and utilize. When you bring your essential focus into the streams of cosmic intelligent frequency, there is the automatic coming together of the elements that are required. You are drawing upon those. This is the infinite resource that is available and readily available to you.

You may recall elements and aspects of frequencies of light civilization existences where you have activated the light field yourself for the environment. Perhaps you went to a planet that was newly evolving with life and you presented the essential resources for the creation. In such way this is what you are doing currently in this life form in this life cycle. You are bringing in the essential resources, the natural resources, from the prime coding system of creation within you.

Firstly, it needs to be initiated and activated and fully active within your individual energy field. This is the vitality of your physicality.

For this information to be presented to you today there is the evidential need that some of you have come forward into this gathering for and you placed the need into the consciousness field and thus the vital resources you are drawing into you and through you.

It may be that where you are located, you are aware of specific deficiencies in some way, or imbalances and so, naturally, you are drawing upon these essential resources to bring into the locality where you are. This is a natural process. This is not to be forced upon any thing, any where, any place, any form, any body. This is a natural flow that occurs when you naturally and easily reconnect to the cosmic frequency codes – the information patterns.

This is the elementary teaching which is being brought forward through your presence. It will naturally emerge in many of the functional educational systems throughout the world in whatever timestream that the receivers are working within.

All of this is observed. From your presence here in the Station you may be observing shifting and changing occurring in the patterns that you observe as you sense what is happening around the planet.

Of course there are mixed opportunities and mixed variants of what people perceive to be necessary and needed and thus you are always reminded to keep your focus and attention into the pure cosmic creative fundamental life streams.

There is the automatic correction of elements that had been distorted through different Beings, through different ways presented and thrust upon people, so you have come back to your individual presence and the core energy system that is your soul connected to the cosmic frequencies.

You have already received the information that you were drawing to you and more than that, because this will be active within your energy field. You have exposed yourself to this energy system connected into the cosmic creative source energy.

In a sense you have returned to the home base to re-vitalize yourself, to regenerate yourself, and more than that – to expand and to increase the vitality through the cosmic frequencies.

Now that you are absorbing this, we withdraw now from this presentation.

Orem out “

Thank you, Orem. This is Lani speaking again.

As I have been aware of what has been coming through, of course I am already absorbing that, so I am filled with that frequency

– the light – the beauty of Creation – as are you!

Are you feeling it now already? Are you allowing your energy field to absorb it all while you are still in this expanded field of consciousness here with us?

Of course the next step is to take in a conscious breath and take in all this information and bring it right back into your current form and environment that is your physicality unit present on Earth. You will be easily absorbing it. Every time that you feel some discomfort in any way in your energy field or body, that is the time to consciously draw upon the cosmic energy field – the resources available through it for you. It's the natural process. It is your natural state of Being!

This is the session for today and I end this session through the Omega Communications Portal. I trust you took this opportunity to refresh yourself, to renew parts of yourself that may have been needing it – and so it is.

Do make sure that you are fully consciously present in the present moment, bringing all your consciousness into being fully aware of the present. You are gifting yourself into the present life, with all the resources available. Thank you.

Lani
