Dimensions of civilizations Enjoy your quantum life

Lani with you again, helping you to bring yourself into the inner space of you. The deeper inner space which connects to the quantum field of intelligence, the quantum field of consciousness. This is the way we begin today, with you shutting out the external situations of life and stepping beyond that to connect to your quantum consciousness field.

Together we do that by linking into a connecting point which brings us together and this is what we refer to as the Station of Light. It is stationed within the field of our consciousness – conscious awareness.

Here we are – ready to begin this session today.

“Welcome, you have come well into this space. Orem addressing you and indeed you are enfolded in the field of consciousness that you have stepped into by committing yourself to meet here and to be open to receive any relevant information patterns, energy patterns for you and in this way what you do for you is also changing the reality and the systems in you, through you and around you.

This is the importance of connecting again into the cosmic field, the consciousness and the intelligent systems.

It is in this way that your own intelligent system becomes finely attuned to the changes in the energy fields, in the flowingness of energy of creation around you and within you. All of this is part of your presence as being a conscious intelligent being in the environment, in the existence of your current lifetime.

There may be, as many of you would recall it as parallel life existences, alternate life existences. These are indeed a component of your consciousness field, but you are involved in actively bringing all the energy information into your current lifeform and existence, into the civilization now. It is always the way of expanding the energy field, bringing in a clearer pattern. The clearer pattern is always positioned and correctly accessing information from the quantum intelligent field – the cosmic creation for you.

You may feel at times you are just beginning your lifetime, you are only just now firmly connected into the pathway, or the processes for your life and so many of you may have had the feeling that you are just now beginning to enjoy life. This is because you have synchronized all the aspects of your body mind field and the soul energy constitution of all that is you. You have synchronized it all and you are restoring it and accessing it from the point of entry of the soul into your body form and then as you continued to evolve and take your first breath of the atmosphere of Earth.

You would realise that from where you are accessing this information pattern in this deliverance, what you are breathing in is different from the very first breath you took. This is how quickly the environmental changes and expanding field of consciousness has become effectively different. What you are doing from your current present existence in this moment is you are accessing an even more clearer pattern and frequency to breath in to access for all of the timeline of your existence, in this lifespan.

You are accessing the quantum field of cosmic intelligence for the entire span of life as you know it to be. This is what you are accomplishing in the sense that now as you work with this you are realizing there are different aspects or conditions of energy, fluctuation or imbalances within your body field environment which are also receiving the quantum field now and this naturally adjusts systems, so that the systems are all synchronized with the quantum intelligent field.

All of this is already known to you. This presentation, in the ways we surround you in the energy field, assist you to realise it and thus you are able to access more deeply the energy fields which extend beyond Earth planet station.

And now you realize the quantumness of your existence.

You are able to access all of the patterns, the frequencies, the information that is appropriate for you in the present moment as you experience a continuation of the clearance of your consciousness field which includes of course your body, your thoughts, your emotions. The existence that you have created around you. Now you are cooperatively creating the greater field of existence, of the cosmic intelligence present.

The more you connect with this and you realise you are within that field, then you see what has been disrupting many of the natural communication systems that you are able to see, to perceive and function within. This is the cosmic intelligent field we are speaking about, where you know what is coming, you know what should be put in place and could be iterated to other people and thus you have become more conscious of the disturbing situations, the disturbing elements that had been introduced to various civilizations and you may also understand why other various civilizations no longer exist amongst the major populations.

There have been many dimensional shifts upon planet Earth throughout its energy field and construction and the pattern of life within it and the many different types and dimensions of existences can sometimes overlap and be visible and when they are visible there are usually symbolic messages and so in your extraordinary communication patterns you understand why they are visible, you understand why you are drawn to some of those instances and indications of previous incarnations, of previous civilizations that held different experiences that were completely different to the way your humanoid body form is currently. You are changing. Everything is in systems of change. It is natural and your participation in the correct alignment to cosmic intelligent systems shapes the ongoing creation of the civilization which you are aware of now. Co-existing. Participating in it and all of this is important for you to maintain your presence.

The energy field you are surrounded in contains the opportunities, it contains the potential for everything that is needed for you. It will manifest in various ways and your consciousness will draw to you what is relevant, it may draw to you other aspects of creation. As you observe them you will realize they are irrelevant, they are not based on the fundamental processes of the cosmic intelligent field. They had begun to be contaminated.

As part of revealing this to you and reminding you of it, draw now upon the cosmic field to eliminate the disturbed and contaminated aspects of everything that you have drawn in from the current civilization. You are indeed separating yourself and relieving yourself of the contaminants. It is necessary to be aware of this and thus you are more readily contacting the cosmic dimensional field of creation and the supporting services, the supporting presences, the presence of the galactic observers assisting you. These are the ones who are assisting to expand the field of light that Earth is receiving and it is all part of the expansion of consciousness.

This is what we came forward to bring you into the realization of all of this, to perhaps bring together various thought patterns you have been having and things you have been remembering or being reminded of that are being presented to you. Maintain your prime connection, your soul connection, to the quantum cosmic intelligent field for you. This is the beauty of your cosmic intelligent systems. We observe this in you.

*Orem out

Lani speaking again.

I acknowledge all of this energy field that Orem has brought us into. It makes it more real. Are you finding that? Are you sensing the stronger energy field around you?

The cosmic clearer field, and it is as if you could look around you and see the type of field that other people have immersed themselves within.

It shows in their energy field, so even if you think you cannot see people's energy field, in one sense you can because you are a cosmic intelligent being. Use more of these faculties that are natural to us all.

I am aware that our communication network into the cosmic and the quantum communication field, the dimensional inter-galactic field, is much clearer and stronger to us now. Regardless of what you might observe going on around the planet, surrounding it all there is a greater capacity of evolvment and expanding consciousness and this is what you are participating in. I am happy that I can share this with you in this way.

Now, take in a natural breath, bringing your consciousness, all levels of it, back into your body form and around it, into where you are receiving this session and as you look around you, look into the field of light around everything. You will see it more around living plants, trees, animals, but you may also see it in what you might call physical objects. Suffuse it all with the greater rays of light coming through to us.

This was the session today and this ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Again a reminder to be fully focused in the reality where you are. Become aware of the time, bring your attention into current time. It is significant because it indicates the rotation of Earth in relationship to our central sun and perhaps the relationship to other galaxies. It is part of the quantum cosmic field and here you are - the point of it in your life. Thank you.
