Omega Communications Portal

Planetary current and earlier disturbances. Significant time. Anchor points

Hello again, Lani speaking, connecting with you, bringing you all together in a communication link in the energy field that is available to all of us. In the energy field it is as if you are with me in a meeting space and it is from here that it is easy to let go of all the current circumstances around you and to move freely into the soul expression of you. Your true light body, the conscious state of you and it is in this state that we gather in the receiving space of the Station of Light. This is an adjustment area, so you will feel you are more strongly present as you consciously connect into the energy of this space.

This is the way we begin today.

“Welcome again. Orem addressing you and greeting you in this space.

In the greeting, do you realise that you are encompassed in the wider field of consciousness here, as an energy, as patterns, frequencies, which align with different energy systems throughout cosmic creation? Therefore, many of you will already be observing different individual messages for yourself, images that may represent that you are in a different field of existence and what is appropriate will be revealed to you, while yet more of you will just be gathered around us here to receive the streams of ongoing energy information.

In this presentation you will be aware that the increasing intensity of energy around your entire planet form is disturbing some very deep fundamental patterns as part of the biosphere of the Earth and therefore there are disruptions occurring – interruptions in what you feel in the normal daily living spaces. This is in many ways formulated and constructed because of previous earlier interventions in the prime establishment of this planet form known as planetoid Earth.

As we are speaking to you we are also aware of the cosmic rays coming through the solar portal and many of these rays are incorporating, as part of the natural enlightening field, they are incorporating elements that will rebalance and correct situations. So, you see inherent in what you may feel is a great disturbance and interruption of services, will result in an examination more deeply of what is able to be presented to people in the form of support.

Maintain your personal integrity and connection to your cosmic consciousness field – the source of the life existence. This in turn brings in a higher frequency pattern around you and through you to balance and clear your natural systems. The natural systems are also part of the greater body intelligent systems which are present as you absorb the greater presence and energy systems of your cosmic creation.

The intention of this is reminding you again to reconnect to the initial energy field which was present at the time of your birth. Again, this is an important conjunction of systems of life support for you. You will be aware that at that moment of birth there are disruptions occur in many instances for the new born infant and for the mother and if there is a consciousness present witnessing the birth, this is able to be corrected at that time.

The point of this is just to help you realise that there are energy systems present always and the potential is there always to completely reconnect to the original pattern, the blueprint, for life on Earth. You might feel that in many ways you are the subject of an experiment, that is not correct. It is you, the soul, who came forward to experience life in this evolving planet form, but more than that, you chose to bring in the elements from a higher field of existence, to bring in this complete pattern for life as it was intended to be. We might say “complete” and you might think that is all there is, but there is always the unfolding of the expansion of what you would think is the full pattern. You are always expanding your consciousness field.

As the process of that continues, there is a natural clearing out of those earlier disturbances and current disturbances. In a sense, this is what is happening with the planetary form. There are disturbances that need to be balanced and cleared. There needs to be the influence from the cosmic matrix intelligence to align to correct and to uplift the systems on planet Earth to make it more acceptable and comfortable.

There are many of you present on Earth who are aware and remember existences that were completely balanced and unfolding and evolving very naturally. This has been the ongoing point of the deliverances to you as you receive these regular transmissions of energy and information.

There are usually pieces of information that you think about or remember that can be put into a greater field of understanding. As you reflect upon experiences you have had, you will also be reflecting upon the energy field that you have connected to which alters the frequency of what you experienced at the time of certain occurrences and this changes the energy field within your memory patterns and indeed within the energetic field that is your bio-energetic field. It is an ongoing sense of harnessing the energy to reconnect and certainly to adapt to the higher energy frequency patterns around the Earth pattern and planet currently. As we have said, this extends beyond your known system. You might come to hear about similar storms or events happening that are visible on the surrounding planets around you. It is the presence of the rays coming through the solar portal.

It is a significant experience that you are having and it is part of the fundamental exchange of energy as you eliminate disturbances from you and in the same sense, you will see that some of the natural areas of the planet are eliminating contamination and other events that perhaps had been placed upon or within the land, so this is a very coherent event happening. Many of you have felt there was a significant time event – time being an interaction and connection of various areas of intense awareness in the cosmic matrix of consciousness where energy points come together and interact or clear or create another revelation of energy and information. It is a similar experience occurring within your energetic nervous system, you could call it, that activates certain processes throughout your physical body and your energy body.

Overlaying it all is the cosmic plasmic field and in many ways when you access this, it provides a containment field around you which can act as a buffer, as a filtering system. We bring this to your awareness because you may experience this in the days unfolding from the sessions. You are an expression of cosmic intelligence unfolding and revealing the cosmic intelligent system that is available everywhere for everybody. It is important to maintain your unique balance and to balance the cellular functions and processes within you simply by reconnecting to the complex energy systems of the quantum source of creation.

This may still appear to be very distant in your understanding of how your consciousness interacts with your thought patterns but it is present around you and as you unfold and expand further, you connect into it and you understand it more deeply.

The purpose of this session was to reconnect you to the higher intelligent field beyond disturbances and so you are bringing in energy that balances, so you connect with that energy field and so you, as individuals present in many different places around the planet form, you are as anchor points, receivers, bringing in the energy. Energy is needed to come in to interact with the consciousness field of people which had been in one sense engaged in the initiation of the disturbances around the planet. As you access your clear connection to the cosmic field and you bring that in through you, you are bringing it deeply into the natural intelligent systems of the Beings within the Earth pattern who are connected and collectively receiving that cosmic information field, bringing it in deeply into the core consciousness field of planetoid Earth.

This is significant for you to know and this is our presentation to you. As you bring your awareness back to your body form and experience the changes, we withdraw now,

*Orem out

Thank you, Orem. This leaves me as Lani to bring our focus back into the present moment and to be that anchor pin, to bring all the higher energy field deeply within the structure, the energy field of this planet.

It is important that you received this energy session at this time, as we measure time, and speaking about time – it is now the time to recede out of this Station of Light and to reconnect yourself fully, deep consciousness, into all of your body mind awareness and your present body form into the location where you are receiving this. You will be aware there are people around the planet form bringing in similar energy. It depends on the frequency pattern that individuals link in with and this is why we have always been impressed to connect to the original source of creation – the cosmic intelligent creative field from whence you came forth. Enjoy this energy and maintain your awareness of the sense of knowing that there is balancing, coming back into order.

This ends this session today through the Omega Communications Portal. Take in a breath, as you breathe out bring your awareness back to the space where you are receiving this, look at objects around you, in present time. Even if you were in the desert you could focus on a grain of sand, or on water, a single wave or light on a wave to bring your attention back to the present moment. Thank you and until we gather again, enjoy who you are, enjoy the centre of light within you.

Lani
