Time of Renewal. New Start

Hello. Lani speaking to you again as I lead you into this comfortable space – an extraordinary space – to continue expansion and to continue accessing the valuable energy and information.

In this way, as usual, take in a natural breath and as you let it out, feel that you are already releasing the thoughts that are around you, perhaps there is noise around you, and simply move within to your central core energy station, as if you, the Soul of you, is stationed within your body form and life and yet it is also stationed in the original point of your existence. Thus, as you identify with this aspect of Self, it is easy to come into assemble within the Station of Light. This is where we meet as a large group and we receive the communication and immersion within the energy field. Are you ready? We have already begun.

“Orem with you and indeed this gathering has already begun. The energy that you are needing, or requiring in some way, you are acquiring. It is already being drawn in around you and you are immersed within that energy field that contains the patterns that you would recognize as words or images or sensations in some way. We bring the information forward through words and as you accept the words, you are interpreting them in such a way that they are intended to support you and perhaps to explain more of what you have been experiencing during your lifetime.

We are together exploring levels of consciousness and the levels, or the fields of consciousness to present it in better words to you – the fields of consciousness contain different living aspects of creation. You are a central point of the energy of creation and you are immersed within the creative field known as the planetoid named Earth.

You are part of the creation. You have always been part of the creation of whichever reality you are immersed within. You could have created your immersion into a reality of a different planetoid system, but here you are, focused in this present life existence as you know it and we are addressing you as the Soul presence.

Moving forward within this presentation, you have become aware that in many ways you have become a solitary Being.

That does not mean you have no support system, because your Soul presence is always supported in the quantum support system, the cosmic support energy information and it is an intelligence in the sense that whatever you need, when you understand the supporting intelligent field is right there, then you draw into you what is needed. You simply need to recognize that.

Part of the presentations to you is allowing the energy presentation around you to support you and to reveal the simplicity of what life is and that also reveals the complexity. The complexity is the quantum field of your existence. In the quantum field of your existence of you the Soul presenting itself into various life systems, you also have accumulated aspects that you would call knowledge. There is the entire creative potential system and in each living circumstances you access specific energy systems to perhaps present yourself as the Soul and the personality into a system of sustaining the system, maintaining it, upgrading it, imbuing it with a higher consciousness field.

Do you recognize now what you are doing in your life stream currently? You are presenting a higher level of creativity as the potential aspect of the Soul and the Soul has the potential of the quantum consciousness creative field.

Because you are immersed in this currently, you are accessing various time realities, for this is an opportunity within the fields of light you are receiving to access the purer level of information for creation.

This moves you beyond previous – we could say outdated – civilizations. This is the time of renewal. This is the time for you to access what your Soul has the ability to bring into creation. It accesses it because it is always present in the supporting field and your participation in connection consciously with that cosmic intelligent field, then you are accessing the higher field creations.

This has been presented in other ways, so in this way in this issuance you will have more understanding of what this is. You see, we address you on the higher intelligent field wavelength and indeed it is a wavelength, it is an energy field. When you receive something that you resonate with, you feel the resonating field change within your structure, or the energy field around you. This is part of the substance that was referred to you in the previous gathering to you – the substance of creation – and this is strengthened always when you consciously immerse yourself within the quantum creation field of intelligent systems.

You see, everything is intelligently capable of receiving higher field information patterns which are the basis of construction in whatever level. You understand already that you consciously create from a higher level every time you have a thought of creating something. Whether it as simple as creating a meal, as creating a living space, as creating a new pathway to travel. You know, you have infinite possibilities of creation and you are accessing these as you continue to expand your field of conscious awareness.

All of this of course is contained in the field that you are immersed within here. You have drawn into this field the potential from your point of origin as it exists continuously within the quantum consciousness field and this is why you have connected in with these presentations – for you to remember, for you to access the energy systems.

This is what we have reminded you about in this session and we observe you enhancing yourself within this. You may feel this is a new start, refreshed in many ways.

This was the presentation to you.

Orem out

Hello again. This is Lani speaking and I am enjoying being immersed in this field and it is similar to a feeling I had as a young child of being within a central space that was beyond Earth. [] Likewise, we have been assembled and are assembling in this Station of Light, beyond the lower densities of the civilization and always it is uplifting us and expanding our conscious viewpoint.

What did you receive in this session? There will have been specific words or visions that you resonated with. It will all be helpful in some way as you continue your life.

The feeling I have is renewal and as Orem said, a new start, so this is obviously an important connection in the dimensional intersections of consciousness.

Take all of this into you again as simply as taking in a natural breath, filling yourself with it and as you let out your breath naturally, bring yourself fully back into your body form.

Your body form has been constructed from a cosmic intelligent system of creation, so any disturbance you feel in it has simply been when you have been disconnected from that pure consciousness field. In earlier sessions I remember we were reconnected from the point of birth, reconnected back and into receiving the flows of the quantum intelligent systems. I feel to remind us all about that.

It is time now to look around you and observe where you are stationed in your core station of life, from the Soul's perspective, and allowing the body mind consciousness to be at one with that. Enjoy all of this and we will meet up again next time you are drawn into this space.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.

Be fully present, engaging the quantum consciousness field into everything that you do, that you say, that you are indeed.

Thank you.

Lani
