Simplicity Restructure

Hello. Lani with you again, today drawing you into the gathering, into that inner space where you connect very easily with the flows and energy fields around us all. As you relax your body and breathe easily and naturally, then you become aware that you have your individual energy field. Are you aware of that?

This energy field is a higher vibration frequency, the aspect of it that is that higher vibration frequency is what I am addressing you as and it is this aspect of you, your body intelligence and your light system of consciousness, this is what gathers in the receiving area of this Station of Light. Take a moment to feel that you are in this space.

Perceive what is around you. Are you feeling the presence of other people like us?

Are you feeling the presence of higher vibrational frequency Beings? It is all part of expanding your consciousness field into the higher vibrational fields. This is where we are at, in this moment, ready to receive energy and information from this quantum field of consciousness.

“Orem greeting you in this space and indeed, as described, it is a quantum field containing many different aspects of your individual soul pattern and its experiences and many other information packets communicated through the matrix of cosmic intelligence. This overlays everything. This is permanently in place everywhere that is creation from the quantum field. This is where you are realizing the importance of your presence as you realise you are of the quantum substance of creation.

In this context you are the substance of the quantum consciousness creative field. You are the manifestation of it and so everything that you have become aware of as your individual life pattern, this is a composite of the quantum intelligent creative field.

You are conscious of this and so you can act individually and yet you are basically connected to a greater quantum field of intelligence.

You choose the levels that you comfortably can function at and in that way you are able to expand that level of comfort, of recognition, into a greater field of consciousness often referred to as the edge of your consciousness. That is an interface aspect that you can be aware of but it still is receiving a quantum intelligent field. It extends and extends and extends beyond the simplicity and the complexity of your individual soul pattern as it is present in the current body form.

This is how we begin this session today, for you to realise the expansiveness and what you truly are.

You may also be observing from this point of view that there are different energy pockets surrounding your individual energy form and body form. We are referring to aspects that have got locked in, or perhaps entangled, in your energy field. These have created distraction points, detracting you from the original essence of the quantum field of creation. You will realise when you review earlier meeting up sessions in this space that there had been a continuation of clearance, release and expelling and dispelling of extraneous matter that had become caught in your energy field. It can get entangled in thought processes and then there is an aspect of the self-protection ability of the individual elements of you to protect itself and in so doing it incorporates the thought field or thought patterns that may have been improperly received or imposed upon you. We continue with this aspect of helping you to realise and to release the imposition of thoughts that have got entangled in your energy structure and that misinforms the energy structure and so the physical structure then seems to enhance and incorporate the misinforming pattern. You will see the relationship between disturbances that occur in your energy field and your physicality field. They are detracting you from the original intention of your soul pattern.

Even in speaking these words to you there is an energy field around you.

You may feel that you have stepped into this energy field, and this incorporates the higher field to clear the misinformed patterns away from you. Following this, you are then communicating clearly and responding clearly and assisting clearly the quantum field of the Beings, the cosmic intelligent Beings, drawn into the exchange of information which is occurring to do with the planetoid named Earth where you are stationed. There are many individual Beings, all aspects of the cosmic creative field, working in harmony to balance and to restore the original intention and pattern for the existence of this world that has been created. Now you are able to incorporate within your presence as an individual Being in the current civilization the higher field.

Already you may be aware there are matters being sorted out that do not matter, that are not of the matter that has been created from cosmic source in its original intention. As your lifespan continues you are absorbing the higher energy field to restructure everything that is to do with the intelligent systems for your presence in the continuation of it within the civilization. Indeed, you might say attention is focused on you as an individual and on all the individuals who are seriously committed to the prime source code of life and of the life of the planetoid itself.

You are already aware that you consist of elements that are also the constitution of the planetoid and you are drawing consistently on that, you are drawing on the air, the vital elements of the earth, the planet life and the creatures. It is all one assembly, one composition of the life force and you receive the light, the rays of energy that are refreshing everything on the land in a cycle. It is one sense a one state, one constitutional effect and manifestation of the quantum intelligent creative field. You might be asking how does this relate to your individual life and experiences you are having. As you realise the experience needs to be fully engaging the support systems of the quantum intelligent field, then you see this reshapes your individual life pattern in the many ways you think about that as. This presentation to you is simple in that you are exposed to, you are immersed in, the original quantum pattern of creation. From this again as you connect to your original source code you are gathering in the creativeness. This comes forward in personal individual inspirational ideas and concepts and you will be putting those into reality in some way around you. This applies to all the activities around you in your life pattern.

Simply put – are you creating harmony and a sense of clarity and connection to the greater field of information? Are you fully connected with that – fully aligned throughout all the elemental systems of your creation? This is what is required. That you allow this connection and alignment and information to be fully connected and flowing through you, everywhere through you. As you become aware of that you might become aware of pockets in your energy field or structure that are creating blockages, but as you realize those blockages are simply energy to be dissolved in the light systems you are receiving, this is the simplicity of your true vital energy essence and activity. The more you become aware of this as your body form intelligently connected to the cosmic field, then naturally there are adjustments occurring around you. It is the resonating effect that you have when you are correctly resonating with the prime source of creation. This is simplicity given to you in these worlds. This is you and this is you responding to the energy field here. You are immersed in this field. It is a way for you to present yourself into this field to continue this clearing pattern, so it gives you the opportunity to shift out of anything that is occurring that is subjecting you in your life or in the pattern of the planetoid life that is a limiting factor that had been created to be limiting you. This is the reminder to step out of that, allowing your consciousness to expand again into the prime source of creation. This is what you have drawn into you in this session.

elements of it.

Thank you, Orem. Again, Lani with you, experiencing another shift, another expansion of what we have been realizing. Maybe there was a little shift that many of us were needing to make in our thought field affecting our constitution and all the

As you continue to unfold and receive what has been around you in this session, it will give rise to more inspiration with you, it is like the inspired breath that we take as part of inspiration / respiration and it is a full exchange of energy and information in and out. Again, it has been wonderful to deliver this through me and this Omega Portal to you and other ones you share it with. Perhaps you simply share it through a simple word you exchange with other people in your life pattern who may not be ready to understand your level of consciousness.

This is what you have responded to in this session and this is already continuing the improvement, the clearance, allowing your presence to be clearer and stronger in the reality of the world you exist in and you are creating the reality around you. Bring all of this into you now and be fully consciously present in the present time within your body field. It is a cosmic intelligent field that you are, the energy that your body is. This is our session today. Enjoy it all.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal today. Thank you.
