Basic Principle of Life Missing Elements

Reading these energy transmissions takes you into an altered state of consciousness - make sure you bring yourself back into the present location and time.

Lani with you again, reminding you that we go into altered states of consciousness to experience the frequencies which are more potent, easily absorbed, when we expand our field of consciousness and enter the Station of Light state.

This is how we begin today. Be present in the Station of Light.

"We acknowledge you. Orem addressing you as you come deeply into the awareness of being present fully here, being present as yourself as a being of light, a body of consciousness, a body of light - and your light body, your soul expression and experiences embody your physical life form. It is part of the composition of the reality you enter when you embody yourself in the existence in whatever reality.

In the current reality most of you are embodying in a physical earth station and that is the planetoid named Earth, for you. There are other ones who come into these gatherings who are from different realities. We address you all as one uniform consciousness, in the sense that as you enter an advanced experience of what consciousness is, you realise there is no difference from where you may be stationed on Earth planetoid or where you may be stationed elsewhere in some other gravitational type reality, or some other form of existence. It is an expansion into the full expression of the cosmic consciousness intelligent system.

This is the quantum system of creation. It, in a sense, may seem to you that it expands and expands and yet it is your awareness and your presentation of your consciousness field that expands and expands into the quantum field.

The quantum field we refer to is the one creative vital essence – the vital one frequency – from which everything then is created.

We have brought you into the field of your awareness that your point of origin is of the one creative aspect. You are bringing in pureness, into your present lifestyle, your present reality and we continue to have you understand that what you do consciously present now expands and extends into all other realities that are your unique frequency pattern.

The frequency pattern of your point of origin and your purpose for experiencing presentation into a physical lifeform is always to recognize there are patterns in the collective consciousness wherever you enter and it is those patterns that you become aware are in some ways controlling or limiting and therefore you again reconnect consciously to your original point of existence. This is all that you need to know.

When you realise this, then you have realized your presence in the quantum field of one creation and filtering into all of your current lifetime reality are the opportunities in that one potential field of the quantum cosmic intelligence. This is where your ways of creating a civilization is a composition of very highly cosmic intelligent beings conforming to the one field of creation.

You will be analyzing and reviewing what you have passed through in your current lifetime that had an effect on you and yet all those experiences have led you to be fully conscious of yourself as the cosmic intelligent being within the housing of the physical lifestyle with the mind, emotions, body elements.

What are you doing with your current lifestyle and within the current lifestyle? – and we are asking this question of your true high cosmic self, fully present. Are you ready now to continue with the original intention of coming into this life pattern?

This was your intention from the cosmic intelligent creative life force.

It was not the intention or thought patterns or vows in any way from any other reality that your soul had entered and experienced in its prime purpose of bringing in the cosmic intelligent system. Remember to identify the true origination state of you.

Have you now experienced many thought patterns falling into place – into one connection of a very powerful central point of your consciousness? The basic point of consciousness. Realizing this now, you will realise also you are part of the connected consciousness field.

You have access to other life realities where aspects of you exist and you are able to draw upon the most useful aspects of realization, of what that aspect of your soul was embodying and activating and creating, again with the highest principles of the cosmic intelligent system.

This is coming together now as you realise that the manifestation of specific needs you have, it all happens because it is part of the collective consciousness. This is what we refer to as the star system life support system – the supporting elements, the vital elements and aspects for life that you are experiencing and creating.

Realizing this, then now realise the happiness that is this aspect of your true cosmic self fully present. The realization of this expands you.

This is a type of acknowledgement and celebration of you allowing all this to access the aspects of you that were needing this that had been missing this basic principle of life. Life is the installation factors of all the experiences of the life-giving creative vital essence. It is a field that you access now with your intention and so you will find that this is a fulfilment of some of the missing realizations and you knew they were missing elements. From your higher perspective and your higher frequency pattern you knew this and so you have come together to access again the full reconnection and all the factors that initiate the fulness of your life principle and you become actively present amidst everything else that might be occurring in your location or in the general location of the planetoid Earth. It is a simple way to access the full cosmic intelligent systems of you and this is all that you need to consciously do. Your actions following that naturally arise from your core central intelligent systems. These might be words, these might be actions, these might be functions that your physical life processes require. There is simply the fulfilment of what is needed for you to be fully consciously present and activating and accomplishing the original purpose for your presentation into the body form.

We present these basic principles to you in different ways and the subtle differences relate to the energy frequencies that you are absorbing, that you are familiar with and that you will accept in the aspects of your mind, emotions, body systems. It is all part of your presentation but it is only one part. Remember the major part of you is your conscious soul, fully consciously present, expanding and working through all the layers that you would recognize as you. Many of those layers are very subtle energy fields which extend right around the Earth consciousness field, within it, throughout it and beyond. In this way we identified when you were ready to fully accept the presence of you – without doubt, fully trusting that you are always in contact with the higher presentation of the soul self and this is always in the action of outworking the first basic principle of creation.

This means you are very aware of the very clear intuitive processes because they are in you. They are the intelligent systems that you respond to as you listen to them, receive them and act upon them.

Be aware you are fully actively present as your cosmic intelligent self. Part of that realization, of course, is the direct connection to the quantum intelligent systems. We acknowledge this as you.

*Orem out

Lani speaking again and I acknowledge all of this, thank you Orem and the collective consciousness, the cosmic beings, the galactic ones of the starfield that was surrounding us.

Perhaps you momentarily felt you were a speck of consciousness in the vastness of a creative field.

Perhaps you felt it as a starfield – a great connected galactic starfield. Many words, and the words are not intended to limit us, but to expand us further into the trueness of ourselves.

Now that you have taken all this into you, bring it all back around your physicality – your physical form. Perhaps you needed to surround planet Earth first in this cosmic consciousness field. So, bring all this around you and through you. Feel that happiness that exists in the core energy essence of you – your soul – and your body intelligence knows what to do with the energy and it has been waiting for it, I am sure.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.

Breathe in consciously and bring yourself fully back into the present moment as you consciously present your pure soul into the present moment. Thank you.

Lani
