What is happening? Energy nodes Intelligent nexus points

Lani with you again, inviting you to be fully consciously present as yourself – as your cosmic intelligent self – present within the appearance of your physical body yet fully aware of the expanded consciousness that you are as your soul central intelligent self.

As this energy self, come with me within the Station of Light, ready to receive energy and information which is important to you and to refresh yourself within it again, easily and freely.

Thank you.

“Welcome into this field and this frequency.

I am speaking as Orem and I am bringing you into the central energy frequency pattern for you. You may feel you are being guided to stand directly within a stream or beam of light.

You would perceive it as light. You would feel the energy frequency enveloping you. As it envelops you, be aware that it passes directly through your energy system in the field here, directly into where your body unit is placed and then directly into the environment and within the central intelligent system known as the planetoid Earth.

This is a direct connection occurring. There has been sufficient expansion within the consciousness fields of people as they have adapted and as you have adjusted to the energy frequencies you are receiving for this to become more visible. You will be perceiving, or being shown in various ways, streams and beams of light directly impacting through the layers of the energy field surrounding the planetoid.

This is what is happening. It is activating a sequence of neuro-receptors within the energy framework of people. They are energy nodes and the energy nodes exist within the overlaying frequency fields around the planet and this is the time for these to be more regulated, more activated and freely radiating and distributing the intelligent cosmic frequencies.

You will see the necessity of this. There have been changes in the environmental world and the impact of events since we last gathered you together.

At whatever time you have entered this energy field with this expansion delivered to you today, this will be the appropriate moment for you to remember why you consciously connect to the quantum frequency field.

This is part of the facilitation of allowing the frequency patterns to come in and enliven the nodes. The energy nodes – we might talk about this as the overlaying energy web network and some of those nodes have been latent – have been inactive – and yet they are capable, they have the potential, of receiving the energy frequencies which come in. They are in a sense fractionated so there is a gentle flowing within the energy nodes so that those central portals can be easily absorbing and responding to the information contained within the energy fields that we are speaking about – the streams of energy coming in. This is needed. You would understand that there are energy structures within the field of energy around you that you would call your breathable atmosphere. The changes have necessitated, or have indicated to the galactic observers, that it was the necessary time to bring in the activation of the energy fields. These have been the information rays coming through the solar portal.

So, you would understand the greater observation point that you have been entering to understand the sequence of some of these experiential events have been happening.

We are speaking about the presence of the galactic energy fields. These may have been presented to you as possible visitations from other planets. Understand it is all about frequency patterns. That is what is the important focal point – the frequency patterns that are needed.

Similarly, you would find you are aware of energy points within your personal energy field that are needing these clearing energy patterns, because you are also a circuitry and there are energy nodes within the entire energy field of you. We are talking about the energy structure more than the physical cellular type structure. We are talking about energy and frequency and the patterns of those. The patterns we refer to are referred to as codes. So you see, everything that is happening to you individually when you feel the need to draw upon a higher energy frequency, this is in correlation to what is occurring around the entire planetary system in the energy field, beneath the surface of the planet, in the atmosphere, beyond the atmosphere. There is the surrounding supportive energy field – just as we have described that you have a supportive energy field around you. So – question what you are seeking. Ask the questions so that you will come into the correct alignment pattern and you become more energetically activated.

We have come in at this time with this energy message to you. It will become more apparent as the energy frequency unfolds around you and throughout you, clearing many of the major intersecting nodes and so they are access portals all throughout your systems and they should be perfectly sequenced with the galactic sequencing. In many cases it could be called a resequencing happening and it was needed. It has become apparent over successive generations of people being born – of the souls being introduced into new body forms – and now is the time for the body forms to adjust more easily to the expanded frequency fields Earth is surrounded within.

Keep focusing upon these energy fields rather than being distracted into distortions or disturbances.

Welcome into your personal space – this energy field we are speaking about. The activation of the central intelligent nexus points within the galactic matrix surrounding you all.

It will have an enlivening effect throughout you. A time of renewal. A time of releasing lower field frequencies.

Thus our message is complete at this time for you.

We withdraw now.

*Orem out

This is Lani speaking again. that was wonderful – again, a reminder.

Allow yourself to be filled with all of this information in these streams and the energy field we experienced through these few moments, through these few words. Streams of energy flowing throughout you, throughout all of creation.

This is the expansion into conscious fields of creation.

Allow yourself to be filled with all of this and now bring your focus and attention fully back into the present moment into your location and of course you – the essential soul presence of you is located within the energy and the physical framework that we call your body or your life. So, allow this different perspective and different energy to be fully active within you.

Again, I have enjoyed bringing this through to us all and it will remain in your energy field. Even if you do not hear every word, the energy that the words represent remains with you, reminding you always of your presence as a cosmic being.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Thank you.

Be fully consciously present.

Lani
