“We are with you, we that speak as the conscious Being named Orem, but we are representing a collective consciousness and this is also part of your greater consciousness field.

You may consider that You are speaking to You, yourself, and yet we do come forward from a different energy frequency pattern than what you normally experience in the body form.

So, as we begin, we continue the patterning – the change of the older patterns and sequences of your life experiences that really you may have continued in an old belief system and old pattern, but here you have entered the different framework of the energy frequency matrix that surrounds you all. In particular, there is the one frequency pattern for you which holds all the information and the patterning for you to continue to re-establish your physical framework and support system in accordance with that which your soul brought in with you. You see, the original sequencing pattern remains as part of your soul energy frequency and as the energies which you have been receiving have intensified, that the planet system is receiving, you are receiving these on the energy field frequencies that you interpret which are your individual field frequencies.

The frequencies you are automatically and systematically assessing. The assessment includes whether you feel you are capable of initiating the change in the patterns of your living systems.

These are the living systems that maintain and sustain your physical placement. This includes the maintenance and sustenance of the physical framework and where you are physically located. There is the merging in the energy fields.

As you continue expanding your personal energy field into observing and understanding and recognizing energy fields around you, then you will see the merging – you will see energy fields that will want to enter your individual space and there is the natural shielding which occurs simply each time you raise your energy frequency, which is connecting to your cosmic field frequency, that is part of what we are calling your natural shielding. This is something you do not need to do to place it around you. It happens naturally by you simply connecting to the cosmic energy frequency patterns. This is what your soul is drawing you deeper into understanding what this is.

Feel the opening up, as if you are a flower opening up, as if you are a sphere of energy – a ball of energy – which is opening up and expanding and you feel you are indeed the central energy source within your own self. Recognize as part of this you are opening up to receive the fulness of streams of consciousness coming through you from source creative energy field.

This is clearing you so that you are fully communicating on the many levels of your consciousness with the creative impulses from the original field of creation.

This is a celebration time for you in your life pattern, because you are realizing the reconnection and you realise that the presence of your soul is always connected and was waiting for you as a conscious thinking intelligent being to realise it and to open to that connection, allowing it to take place.

Shift old beliefs. Soul pattern. Fully connected

Lani speaking. Are you ready? Are you ready for another inner journey? In this space together, initially we gather in the energy field from which I am speaking and then we move into the receiving state within the Station of Light. You see, there is a play on words here. Words are significant and the way we use words is significant.

Here we are together – we are in a state of readiness to continue our expansion into the greater field of consciousness – and this is your consciousness

This is how we begin today.

Around you now are you sensing the shifting of the energy fields and these again are responding to the activation of the energy nodes around you and within you. You are this energy field and the connections through all those energy pathways, the nexus points, these are what are continuing to be activated. Perhaps in your language currently you would say being brought on line, connected to the ultimate matrix field of energy support systems. The energy support systems are simply the fullness of your consciousness connected into the fields of creation.

You have been ready for this. Around about the moment of your birth you were aware that this would occur in this body formwork, in this body life pattern. That was the awareness that the soul contains and was waiting for you to go through various experiences which bring you back into recognition and acknowledgement and connection in every way through the personality systems, through the control systems you have been brought up within, within the planet, and now you have fully connected.

This enables you to realise the continuation of the expansion of consciousness throughout galactic systems. We use the words galactic systems and cosmic framework systems so that you understand that you are part of that, that the Earth consciousness is part of that. It is a system.

Can you consider now the importance of you awakening to this, realizing your strong inbuilt connection to the cosmic intelligent systems of energy and information necessary. You see, you are forming a new life pattern and this is received in the consciousness of the living intelligent system that you call the planet that you are on.

Feel this connection you have. Enjoy this. Be in the joy of the conscious recognition of your placement exactly where you are in every moment as you measure moments in time.

You are of course free to move and change, with choice. Your choice. This also is part of you, your intelligent thought system, working in synchronization with the patterning of your soul presence.

This changes the frequency pattern around you and you may move around your environment and meetings with people and you will understand where they are focusing within, what they are focusing upon. You may have the recognition that the soul is present within each person waiting for the connection to be made.

This journey today, while you may feel you journeyed outward beyond your body framework system to connect into this Station of energy field, and yet you moved deeper within yourself for the connection. It is all part of the one pattern of creation – the energy field of consciousness.

This is what we needed to present to you in this deliverance.

*Orem out

Acknowledged, Orem.

This is Lani speaking again with us all, bringing my consciousness back to observing us all. The feeling I have is that many of us are nodding in agreement and sharing the energy that we feel with everyone of us here.

It is a happy moment, enjoying it.

So, bring all this joyful happiness now back into your body formwork, into your location and into the flowingness of time, moving into the present moment where you.

You may already be aware of the changes, of the shift in your pattern of consciousness which has occurred through receiving this session. From my perspective it was very deep and I know I will gain more every time I listen to this, as I do. I listen to the current session every morning and I hear something different every time.

Now come back fully, choosing to be consciously present of your presentation of the soul in this life pattern.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Thank you.

Lani
