“Welcome in this quantum field – as you are naming it – the quasmic field of consciousness. This is what you are. This is here you are and in the moment that you describe as the present moment of being here presently in the moment, you incorporate the energy field of collective consciousness throughout your life systems.

Interpret this in your way perhaps as referencing it as your life story. Your lifetime. This lifetime is where you are presenting consciousness and consciousness is, as described, a field. You are an energy field. You are more than a physical form. You are the energy field, the consciousness, the quantumness, the quasmic quantumness of everything that you are aware of.

This is all patterns of energy, so, much of this formulation that you have come to realise is what you are existing as, this continues to clear patterns of your consciousness field and therefore it clears patterns of disturbances that may have occurred in your energy structure field, of the denser construction.

You see the consciousness that you have is an energy field that constructs and continues to construct the circumstances, or the instrument, the vessel, for consciousness.

If you bring your awareness to consider that you are the conscious entity on Earth, it is necessary for you to be here consciously and that you are bringing in the quantumness of creation, this changes the viewpoint that you may have been holding of who you are and why you are here.

There is searching amongst people to understand why the consciousness, the soul essence, is present. What does it have to do? What it has to do is to be fully aware that as a consciousness it simply exists and presents into the collective field the vital life force – that is creation.

That is the intention of the life essence – the soul – for being present in a physical type entity and construction. This includes being present in the energy construction and consciousness construction of that sphere of energy that you are existing in and you participate in the construction of it.

Every breath you take in you are participating in the construction of the consciousness field that you regard as your home planet. You are continuing the construction and enlivenment of it with what you eat that is a natural life process of the supporting elements of creation. As you ingest those you convert it into elements, into energy, that therefore is utilized in the whole biosphere that you exist within,

We focus on your presentation in the current circumstances and as you focus on that as within and as your physical entity self, you also must include and be aware of the life force, the consciousness, that keeps the body form present so that your quantumness, your cosmic quantum consciousness, will continue to bring in and sustain the energetic field of existence around you in the sphere, in this biosphere of life.

There is naturally a continuation to continue the existence and creation of the evolving consciousness of this planet that you are presently existing within and as. This is the simplicity of it. Then you may become aware that the creations that come out of a consciousness that is aligned with the cosmic intelligent field – designs, elements, machinery, equipment - which need to be based on the first principle of life.

This Lifetime. Quasmic Consciousness. Constructing. The Purpose

I am Lani presenting these transmissions of light energy information to you.

As we expand our senses and our consciousness field – what we become conscious of – we always then open to the cosmic intelligent systems. This is what I am calling the Quasmic intelligent systems. This is what you are and as we gather together with the intention of receiving more quasmic energy patterns, then we can assembly very easily in the Station of Light. This is like a focal point, a centre point, to meet up as a group and to facilitate the energy information for the group, for yourself and for your environment.

We wait here to connect with the collective consciousness field here.

Creating beauty and harmony. Raising the vibration, naturally in accordance with the quantum field of creation.

When you look at something that has been created by your technical people, do you see it also incorporates the first principle of creation – of using the energy fields that are conscious to create equipment and elements that will sustain the equipment?

You will be seeing the vibration of the creations that are made. You will see the energy field of all creation and then you choose what you will align yourself with and utilize. You may also choose to imbue what you see or utilize with the quantumness of creation, with that quasmic field of intelligence from the united collective intelligence of creation, that is creation.

The energy of all of this filters through words that you interpret. The words are intelligent frequencies and these are what your consciousness interprets and utilizes. The utilization and even interpretation changes in accordance with the level of your connection into the prime source of creation.

Utilize the connection. It is a continuous exchange, for as you utilize the energy frequency from the prime source or your creation and you convert it into thought, into frequency, into activities, this enhances your own life force, the vitality of the containment of the life force and in turn this is a continuous cycle from where you are situated within the energy field of the body construct and the connection to the prime intelligent point of origin of you. This can get recycled into what you say different time streams and experiences and yet it is still the same conscious life force being present as long as the physicality will sustain it and be able to be sustained by that same originating quantum field of conscious life.

It is all here with you currently as you began this gathering in the present moment of the presentation of you here in this unfoldment and expansion of your consciousness into what already exists here.

This is a way for you to enter that quasmic field of the frequency. It is presented to you in different ways every time you gather or connect in through the recording of the expression of the words and the energy that continues to come through that recording or what ever way it is that you are presented with it. It is living consciousness converted into words, converted into script somewhere where you can visualize it, or receive it in your consciousness field. You have created the way for you to receive it in the way you are comfortable to receive it. This is part of your creation.

You are continuing to create using the quasmic energy field of your intelligent prime source of creation.

Allow this to be everywhere through you. This was the presentation in this gathering in this moment.”

Lani present again. Did you notice there was not the closing statement of 'we withdraw now'? Simply because it continues to exist in your consciousness field.

Is this improvement, expansion of you, of your realizations and of your presentation using your physical anatomy?

It is interesting how a few words, a few moments of gathering out of the constraint of time, expands the realizations and connections individually we have and, of course, this carries through into your current lifestream of experience.

Enjoy this. Enjoy being consciously present.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.

Take in that conscious breath that brings you back into where you are stationed and feel the difference in your energy field – the consciousness field that is you – the quasmic field. I am enjoying using that word!

That is all from me at this time. Thank you.

Lani
