The significance of your frequency

Lani with you again, bringing you into this space for the purpose of connecting into that overall quasmic intelligent field. This is what you are designed from. This is you designing your life. This is you participating in this expansion and this state of consciousness.

Essentially, we are consciousness and we have gravitated together to present ourselves into another dimensional frequency, to receive, to understand more of why we are and more than that.

This is how we begin this session today, by entering the collective consciousness field.

“In entering this space, this dimension, this state of consciousness, you are part of an extension that you may identify as an extension of the common community energy field of existence.

You are also participating in the extension of the quasmic consciousness state of existence. It is a state of existence. It is present. It is existing. It is ongoing. It is not limited. It is an experience that you are experiencing as you work through experiences in your timeline of existence.

You are meeting in this energy frequency pattern of this quasmic field for the purpose of enlivening and activating more of the vitality that is your natural way of existence.

There have been confinements and limitations placed on the consciousness of human beings and as such, the energy systems that enliven the physicality chose to follow the limitation, because it was so pronounced and reinforced in many different ways, strengthened.

You have entered this quasmic frequency where now you understand there is freeness in your expansion of consciousness. You are in your beautiful world of creation and you continue the beauty of it. You continue to expand as you create through your willingness to bring in more of the quasmic intelligent creation – the design.

You would understand that creations are designed. When you look around creations that support you in your life experience, you will see they have been designed in some way.

There are signs within the existence of what is around you and the signs would be representing to you different aspects of your consciousness that chose to experience that design and that sign.

So, it is significant for you to realise the aspect of creation that you are building, you are participating in, you are the bringer of design in accordance with the quasmic creative intelligence field.

We come through consciousness fields to bring this information to the conscious mind that you all have. You would understand that the conscious mind needs to be enveloped within and working in coherence with the quasmic intelligent creative mind system and that is a design. It is part of the signature that you are.

You all have a significant vibration and that is your signature in the cosmic field of energy frequency patterns. When you are experiencing happiness and vitality, your frequency changes. That sound. That note, that is part of your energy field can be registered in various other dimensions of existence totally encircling, or enclosed, in the biosphere of the planet and it is registered beyond that in a quasmic intelligent field.

This is how significant you are. The significance of you bringing yourself into a field where you are, in a sense, refuelling yourself with the vitality of the quasmic creative field, this is the significance of what you are doing and how you are being present in your physical vehicle and in your present location where you are presenting yourself. The significance is that you are contributing to the expansion and the raising of vitality frequency around the planet.

You may have noticed there is a need for upliftment in some way, for the frequency of life to come into harmony, resonating with the natural growth pattern in the environment. We are speaking about the natural elements and the contributors to the natural elements all around you.

In particular, you would see the ocean life and the vegetation life in the many degrees that exist as part of the co-creation of this sphere of existence.

When you realise the importance of this, the significance of you validating your presence, then you move easily and freely through experiences.

It is a sense of continuation of the vital life essence of you. This is that aspect, the seed, of source creative energy field that exists within you and as you and continues to be present and raising the vital frequency of you. This goes all through your systems. It comes in through the life vitality field of the quasmic intelligent field of creation. It infuses you all around you and throughout you and the core base of that exists deep within you from the moment that the body form was created and then it became enlivened and it continues to be enlivened as you continue your connection to the quasmic field of intelligence.

We are sharing this information to you again to uphold you in this field. We are not talking to you as if we are teaching you something. We are opening the consciousness field that surrounds you so you receive it yourself. You have brought this into your reality field for you to receive from the quasmic field of all existence and you exist in that pure origination quasmic field. This is your vitality source.

We are simply showing you this in various ways through these connections that you come to.

It is assisting you to remember and this was all that was required in this session. You are remembering this quasmic centre of creation that is you.

You will be ready to live your life in a different way as you continue, following this session.”

Acknowledged.

This is Lani again.

I wonder if this brought confirmation to you. Perhaps it was an uplifting experience for you that you needed to receive.

It opens you to who you truly are – a magnificent, quasmic, intelligent Being of the quasmic intelligence of the design and as was confirmed to you, it is significant that you have received this in this experience through the flowingness of time.

It brings you right into the central focus position of this that you are.

This was our session today that we contributed to the experience of this. Feel it. Love it within you and around you. Love that you are here engaging in the expansion of consciousness in this placement. I was going to say this current lifetime but it is more than that. We are not limited to this current life experience, are we? We are much more than that in the dimensional existences. So perhaps there is more to think about that has come through this session.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Thanks for being here, and you are fully immersed again in your physical station, aren't you? You have been revitalized. Perhaps it relaxes something throughout you and that is always important.

This is all from me today, thank you.

Lani
