“Gathering in this specific dimensional frequency you initially are assessed. The assessment incurs recognizing the level, the frequency pattern that you are currently and there is also an assessment to ascertain how much more vitality and how much more of the increased frequency you have the capacity to experience.

The experience of it may introduce visual activities or disturbances. They may also give you various sensations through your energy field and around your body. So the assessment is necessary and therefore there is an adjustment takes place. It is an automatic adjustment for you because as a conscious Being you present yourself here for the specific adjustment necessary.

We speak about your conscious intelligence – the soul presence of you that recognizes the level of frequency that is available to you and which can be easily integrated into your frequency systems because, as we have explained and as you know, you are a frequency pattern. A system of different elements of the specific frequency that is you. There are different vibrations of it and different effects and every process that we call the systems of the physicality have a specific vibration and you are resonating to a prime frequency for you. The prime frequency from your origination state where the concept for you arose from.

There is the recognition of the frequency pattern that you are exhibiting now in the gathering and the frequency pattern that is available for you, labelled the potential for you.

What we have been doing in our sessions is to help you recognize this and to assess the areas that need some specific adjustment.

This is in various energy aspects of your complete energy field – the process of your consciousness – as you move through the experiences that consciousness exist as and as you exist as the frequency labelled a consciousness.

You are a consciousness. You are conscious of being a frequency that is designed and designated as consciousness.

You are coming to a central position of understanding what has been presented to you over many sessions and it is unfolding you, revealing different patterns, just as you would see some plant-life or flower or seed opening and releasing an energy pattern or opening to receive an energy pattern to continue its creation. In this way you also are opening aspects of yourself releasing patterns and being ready to receive the higher frequency, raising your vitality in every way, nourishing you, enlivening you, changing an aspect perhaps that had been resisting or in some way completely unaware and therefore not open to the facilities available through the cosmic connection that you have and that opens you to the potential that is your frequency experience.

Now this is leading you into being more creative in the way you view where you are living, the circumstances, the environment, this is perhaps you would say the management of the environment, the management of the land mass, the management of specific population concentrated areas. It is all an aspect that you recognize exists.

Coming into sessions such as this you are also recognising what exists is the potential for more support systems moving beyond what you would talk about as your financial systems. That is a method of support and it was based initially as the best process for support where people would contribute to the support of the entire system and in that way they would also be receiving.

What is your capacity? Your potential? The prime support system

Hello, Lani speaking to you.

Again, we gather and this is the way we initiate the group of us together connecting into the greater quasmic intelligent system that is consciousness. It is your consciousness.

This is a fun way, an easy way to be together in that area, the Station of Light. This removes us from the energy field around you which might be a very busy, active, perhaps city-like structure or something similar – it helps you to step away from that into the quasmic field and so you are able to observe your life and observe the greater connection to the cosmic creative intelligent design.

Let's enjoy this time together having fun exploring what we open to more in this state.

Now you are moving into the expanded understanding of what the support system is. The support system we refer to is the support system of the creative field, of the creative intelligence design.

In another scenario you might be experiencing a support system that does not work along what you recognize currently as financial support. There are greater aspects to that and recognizing that there is more support available above and beyond the current planet's financial system, then this is the way you are opening to receive from the quasmic field so you feel the greater support and it comes into the creation of you, of your life support system, your story of experience in the frequency patterns that you are creating, you are participating in, of the quasmic creative design.

You may sense this as overlaying, overseeing, overlighting all around you and beyond you. Perhaps initially you would see it overlaying and producing the energy field of support over the country, the land mass where you are, and more than that, over the entire planet itself. It is a greater support system where even the creatures who might live in bush-land, they are also receiving and participating in the overall system.

Focus on the upliftment of this creative, of the design system and open your awareness to participate in a more precise, perhaps you could say a logical support system, a natural support system, naturally derived from the quasmic intelligent field and design.

Now this is enabling a newer, or an enhanced, level of support systems flowing throughout your physical design. This is important and perhaps it is this aspect that has drawn you all along to move into a higher understanding of what reality is, of what your physical reality is, of what life is and so you seek and the more you seek inwardly then the more you are seeking out into the quasmic intelligent field and the concept of it all and this was where you were initiated from and you are now initiating again a greater support system throughout you.

This is the importance of you being present receiving this information during this collective drawing in of the understanding and the unfoldment of it, just as you are unfolding yourself to receive the potential of the quasmic field. This is it.

Continue to do this and you will extract the precise frequency for you to realise, interpret and accept.”

Lani speaking again, bringing my awareness back into the gathering of all of us receiving this, beyond time of course, beyond location, just in this dimensional field, the frequency.

Together we have opened to a greater expanse within the quasmic support field.

Now you will understand why you are drawn to receiving this. Your soul intelligence has drawn this to you, so draw it deeply back into your entire systems and experience the difference, the changes, which will unfold and evolve from even just this single session. This might be the most important one for you to be receiving, but it could still be a continuation. Energy exists everywhere, always.

Thanks for being here and this ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.

I am sure you will have enjoyed this, just as I have enjoyed bringing this through to you. Thank you.
