“When you enter the collective consciousness as this is in this gathering space where you have presented yourself, there is ongoing expansion of your perceptions and awareness. These are natural to you in your quasmic state of existence and all sessions, all information patterns of energy we have brought you into and that you have received, have continued to open you into that expansive consciousness field.

It is ongoing and it is active and yet you access it through the very stillness, through the central stillness connection you have with your quantum field.

This quasmic intelligent information system is something that has originated as your original space, your original lifeform and intention and potential. In a sense, this is you speaking to you as the expanded consciousness field, the collective state speaking to you and you are drawing through this collective consciousness, even through these words that are being delivered to you, you are drawing through the central state of existence.

In this way you are in a sense upgrading the systems around you that may have been degrading in some way, have been mis-informed or have been altered from the original beautiful design and the design was meant to support the growth and expansion and the freeing up of the natural energy field within you as an individual, within the consciousness field of the civilization and wherever you are existing.

This means we refer not simply to you existing on this planetoid named Earth and given other names, but you may existing in other realities that you perceive as somewhere else.

The importance is being fully present here where you are receiving this information. In a sense it is a network and within that network there is a central intelligent, a core central process, and encoded information.

We refer to it as encoded simply because it is a vast quasmic field of information.

When you consider yourself to be a vast quasmic field of information and there is a processing occurring within you, then you see you are given the impetus to continue expanding, to continue growing and expressing more of the intelligent design that is the one creative life force, the presence. It is not a force as such. That is a word to describe the presence of the intelligent design system and you are of that intelligent design system. You cannot be separated from it. You would not exist in any dimension, in any sense of any reality with being co-existing and as a result of this quasmic intelligent design.

When you orient yourself with that, when you resonate with it completely, you are in a different field of frequency and in that frequency field you have access to everything that is required as part of the expansion. This is the fulness of that which you are and you are this intelligent Being connected within and of the quasmic intelligent field.

In these few words you have accessed what you have been seeking.

You have had the impetus to be seeking this in many different ways. Now, when you completely understand this, that you are within this quasmic connected field, this is how you are receiving what you are needing, this is how you are linked in with Beings or places or activities that are part of your ongoing expansion.

The Still Centre. The Origin. The Access

Hello. Lani speaking and bringing you into this space together, opening my perception to greet you here and to help you to relax and tune into the quantumness of you, in that greater collective oneness, the purity, of the original creative life force and presence.

Has this inspired you already to bring all your awareness into the collective gathering as we assemble to receive in that space of light?

Just be relaxed and open to receive and to participate here. Thank you.

It is part of the excitement of knowing there is this quasmic intelligent design field and you are part of that design. You are cooperating with it, you are participating within it and as it.

The energy within the framework of these words – it is not a limiting framework – it is connecting you into the quasmic intelligent system. Often we have referred this to you as the quantum matrix field. You would understand that a matrix has connections. There are pathways. There are nexus points. There are connecting points and this is what you are.

All of this you may sense through the presentation of these words – you are within a central existing connection – a matrix – and you may even see the connecting nodes – the nexus points – alive and active with excitement. The excitement is a movement, it is an exchange of systems, of requirements, of processes and these all are contributing to your sense of wholeness, of wellness, of being active within the creative process that where you are existing is happening.

There is the creative process active within the consciousness of this living organism that you exist within, this sphere of activity all around you.

Again, there is the reminder that whatever is happening in the outer world, perhaps in the physical reality you might perceive, you as you connect to your quasmic intelligent field, you are within the still centre. The still centre draws to you more stillness from that central creative space or void. It is the central intelligent system and you emanate that stillness, a consecutive process coming into the conformity with the quasmic intelligent system.

It is a design. You are able to contribute to the design when you are fully connected to your quasmic intelligent system. It is that original point of origin – the origin.

This is where you are presently existing, receiving this. There has been this created point to connect you to the point of origin and as you connect with that, you are within the quasmic intelligent design field.

This is the access point for you. This is what you are creating within you and around you.

Perhaps there had been patterns that you observe, you notice within your physicality system that needed bringing into this quasmic design process again, restoring it within you and so you have done this. It is happening.

Enjoy what you are experiencing in this session, because you have created this. Your aspect of the collective consciousness is with you – always. Waiting for you to access it, to connect with it, as you do.

This is the presentation to you in this moment in this flowingness of experience.”

Lani present again, as Lani, as this spokesperson, as the presenter of this energy and information.

I am drawing upon that infinite quasmic intelligent field for the design of this presentation, for a way of spreading it out for those who are ready to understand and receive it.

Thank you for receiving this and remember this is now where you remember that you are focused within this civilization as this pure intelligence – your point of origin fully present in every way with this quasmic intelligent design.

There will be a continuation of these sessions because we are part of the collective consciousness bringing it in fully into creating and uplifting the design around each one of us.

Thank you. This ends this presentation through the Omega Communications Portal.
