Omega Communications Portal

Infusing and editing your Life Story Settlement

Hello, are you ready for another infusion of quasmic energy, this energy that originates the importance of you? It is the energy of your origination state and space. It is where you came from. It is a collective consciousness field, what we call the quasmic intelligent field.

Settle yourself and tune into the essence, the energy which comes to you and this is the infusion I am speaking about and so we are ready to meet together as a group, assembling in the Station of Light.

This Station of Light can be the central focus point for you to communicate with the galactic beings that you might associate or identify with, or it could be that you communicate with the very highest aspect of your own consciousness.

Open yourself to receive as we begin this session today.

“In communicating with you in this way in this collective state of consciousness, you are open to reinforce what you already know and that is that you are a complete energy system inasmuch that you understand that you have everything available to you.

The completeness may be in an extended field of consciousness such as you enter in a space as this in the quantum field of collective intelligence. It is not collective intelligence as you might think on your world. It is the collective quantum creative life force of everything.

This is why we continue to bring through energy and information to help you be infused with the living essence – the life force – the life field - and thus you are already possibly examining aspects of your life that have been missing this essential life force. You could come to edit yourself – edit your life story – and in fact infuse the life story, edited with the command principles of the original intelligent design.

Will this fit your life story into a better position? Into a state of remembering? Perhaps remembering in your early years when you were still more strongly connected with the field of consciousness, you were receiving energy and information that relates to your life story now, to what is unfolding around you.

As you are unfolding now, you are incorporating the potential that you brought forward as the life essence – the essence of life – to infuse the more denser vehicle that you use to station yourself where you are in your present life station.

We are not identifying you in one particular location, geographical position you might think, but we are positioning you in a nexus point of quantum intelligent field and this is the nexus point of the quasmic intelligent system. Thus, you are able to absorb more of the infusion that you naturally receive when you place yourself correctly connected into the nexus point.

This is the overlaying energy matrix of the greater consciousness field we refer to and you are stepping into that when you consciously raise your consciousness and you move into the quasmic intelligent field and design system.

Remember, your physicality is based on a design system, on a quasmic principle of harmony and order. This is what you are enveloping yourself with and infusing yourself again when you move into this raised state of frequency and you have done this. You have done this by allowing yourself to receive the energy infusion that is always contained within the words when they come from the central intelligent quasmic field.

Humankind and other races have tried to replicate this in the ways they can identify with, changing possible equations of natural formation, introducing elements that distort or change in some way the true design pattern. Do not be tricked into moving into other states that might be presented to you through some form of technical engineering.

You want to always place yourself where you resonate completely with the energy field, the frequency, of the beginning of all life – the point of origin, and this is where the quasmic intelligent design arose from.

It has always been the message to connect you to this, using different words to describe the pattern, the situation, the pathways. It is one framework, one nexus point that you are aiming to fully connect yourself with. The quasmic framework.

Again, we identify this within you and we draw your attention into the central point of stillness that exists. It is your consciousness – the greater expanded raised frequency that is consciousness – and it exists within your physicality vehicle. You are bringing it in. You are amplifying the quasmic frequency and as we said, this is the design that is the principal design for the workings in every way.

So, bringing yourself into this positioning and identifying yourself with the quasmic frequency allows many of the patterns of distortion to be undone, to be released, to be dissolved away and this will happen more quickly as you realise this quantum field exists around you and within you. It is a state of existence. A dimension.

You might think you are moving into such and such number dimension. It is not fixed. This is a flowing field of information. All dimensions are a flowing field of information and you are drawing on this when you consciously intend to be connected to the highest frequency in that dimensional freeness – the flowingness of dimension, of frequency, of light and life and existence.

This is creating a settling within you and it is creating, using common language – a new settlement. A settling of out of order conditions. A settlement where you can feel settled in the frequency of existence.

We are observing you as you shift your consciousness and your thought pattern into this field we describe and we observe the expansion of your frequency field, your consciousness.

This allows communication into the depth of your awareness from the purest level of creation. We emphasize this so you become very clear and focused into the original pure design system.

This is what we came forward to infuse you with in this state of being enveloped in the communication.

This continues and is always expanding upon previous immersions within this field.

You are acknowledged.”

Lani speaking again, enjoying the field that we have been immersed in and that has been revealed to us it has always been with us and within us.

It is interesting that it is presented in many different ways that would be appropriate for many separate individuals.

You will hear what you need to hear always in these sessions and you will receive the frequency. It is an infusion of life, of light. Enjoy this, as I enjoy bringing this through to us.

This is the conclusion of this session through the Omega Communications Portal.

Bring your full attention into your energy field, present with your individual physicality station of life. Breathe it all into you.

Thank you.
