Relative Systems. Resonance. Harmonics Basic Principles

Hello Everyone and Hello to You as the individual who is receiving this information and the energy in the information.

Lani speaking and I am connecting consciously to the quasmic field – the intelligent design energy information systems and because I am linking into that, you are automatically linking into that frequency as well – the quasmic light frequency of the original design system which is what we call the quasmic intelligent design of creation.

Here you are – already aware of that field around you that contains energy and information. You draw on this. You have been drawing on this perhaps in many different ways all through your lifetime.

Now that you are aware of this, recently you will have drawing on that field that surrounds you, the supporting field, in a different way, perhaps for different purposes.

The sessions are always to remind you and to help you connect into the very high frequency that is light, that is life.

This is how we begin today as I open for that quasmic collective consciousness to come forward to you – to us all.

“You are acknowledged. You are received in this field surrounding you. You are received with the specific needs that many of you voice and call out for. You are received in the energy system that understands you and observes you and also will be assessing you for what is needed.

We see many of the information patterns that are needing the quasmic field of correction. You may not be aware of many of those patterns. Remember, we are able to connect you into the viewing ability and senses that you have so that you understand how you are connected into the quantum field of many layers, many dimensions of connection.

Ultimately your aim should be to completely connect to the original quantum field of creation. This is the combination of the cosmic energy field of creation, further than you have explored and the quantum field from which arises information in accordance with the specific needs.

The relative system. You have many relative systems within yourself which have a specific energy frequency that they resonate with. The elements needed all have specific frequency and the frequency can be observed and sensed, understood, in the quantum physics level as multi dimensional faceted constructs, although the construct is not fixed.

It has the resonating effect with the harmonics that are equivalent in the area that you might call the space time existence – the continuum of that – and this is how the energy you are needing will be drawn into you when you are open to receive it, when you allow yourself, to consciously connect to the quasmic field.

It is understanding this basic principle which assists you in the ongoing creation of existing in this physical form, using this physical form and also you are accessing in your quantumness other dimensions of existence.

There may be energy systems – frequencies - you can accept from other dimensional frequencies where there are aspects of you, your consciousness, consciously existing.

It is an amplification of what you need which, when you become attuned to those specific frequencies, the frequency brings in what you are wanting to accomplish, what you are wanting to accelerate in some way around you, perhaps really to create the perfection that you resonate with.

Inherent within you is the original design system and you always are seeking reconnection to that original design system – the creativeness of it, to bring it in around where you are situated. This you will be doing.

Many of you may have experienced this in your younger years when you used the images and the processes of images to create stories, to create facilities.

Now what are you doing? Are you using your functionality and the correct connection to the quasmic design to create new facilities and also to facilitate the bringing in of the light field to expand the living situations? The living situations include the living situations contained within the physical vehicle.

There is the connection always between what you experience energetically, emotionally, physically with the quasmic field of the original design. The pathways need to be connected. You need to be fully connected and aligned to that original design.

Now that you understand this and have connected with it, allow yourself to observe what will be the outcome in the surrounding civilization on the Earth planetoid. Changes – in accordance with this quasmic design field before any distortions occurred.

Similarly you will find in the consciousness that you have that creates and supports and sustains the physical life pattern you have. You are creating a new phase in this life story you are experiencing and creating.

What do you align yourself with? Always the highest point of connection into the quantum matrix field – the supporting creative field. This surrounds you. This surrounds the planetoid. This is of the quantum collective consciousness.

Receiving it in this way increases your capacity to understand it and to use it and to experience it. This was the purpose of this session that you drew yourself into and you drew it into you. Receiving it – instantly – as you talk about instants and moments in relationship to the experience of time. This is happening within you and through you.

Let it be.”

Lani speaking again. I am taking a moment to absorb this myself as I receive it as it comes through to you and to all of us.

There seems to be the impression that we have aligned ourselves to be receiving different frequencies more in accordance with the harmonic frequency of the creative life system.

Perhaps you will feel you have turned a corner, you have started on a new pathway. It will be something new in the way that you are responding to the quantum field you are experience now within this session. You are becoming that frequency pattern yourself – the creation.

Bring this all into your mind systems, the body systems, the life systems all around you that you recognize you are supported in the physical structure. Remember, around that is the quasmic support energy structure – the matrix of creation.

This is the session today coming to conclusion through the Omega Communications Portal.

Thank you for linking in and receiving. Thank you for subscribing and sharing and thank you for being fully consciously present. This is wonderful.

Now you can bring your awareness back to what is changing, improvement, opening, relaxation – something you have been seeking and this is it. Thus this session is complete.
