Quasmic Light System. Creative change. Missing Elements

Hello. Lani presenting this session to you. Another inner journey. A time to move deeply within yourself and you move so deeply within yourself, you enter into something that is like a sphere of light – a light system.

The light system exists all around us and through us and it is the light system that we consciously meet together within because it is the quantum light system of all creation – of the cosmos. It is the quasmic system of life and light and this is another opportunity for you to be perhaps gently guided to be positioning yourself into the quasmic intelligent field – the design of life.

We meet together to receive energy and information from the collective consciousness of the quasmic field of all creation.

This is how we begin today, because you are already in that expanded and connected field.

“As you are within this connected field, we come forward surrounding you in the freshness of the energy systems. It may appear to be fresh, or new, or different from previous sessions you have entered into because your whole system is being re-oriented into a more basic and more – if you like the word “powerful” – presentation of life.

It means that you have continued to expand your energy field into the greater field of creation.

It is in this field that you receive the information systems and patterns that you naturally seek. It is a continuation of the natural presentation of you within the physical body form and embodied in the consciousness that is known as the planetoid Earth. It is the natural instinct to embody a greater field within that, to bring in a greater field of energy and information because you are the ones presenting that into the entire system.

Therefore you cannot view happenings which may be occurring in different parts of civilizations within the planetoid sphere as disquieting or discomforting or not right, because you are here to bring in the correct energy frequency from source energy – from the original state of source energy.

It is in that state there is ongoing evolution, but the evolution does not require conflict. That is a misinterpreted energy system that has been presented into civilization and generations. When you step outside of that conditioning and you naturally then are connected into the original field of creation, then there is the expansion of various concepts named happiness, health and inherent within you is the natural longing for that to be present everywhere around you in the civilization.

What we have been presenting you with is the reminders that this is what you are present on Earth to do. You are present to bring in that pureness of creative source, outside the parameters of what you would say natural ancestral and civilizational constructs. You move outside of that back to the original pure essence of life.

Already those of you who understand this are feeling the difference in your energy field, in your thought patterns, in the physical structure, in the emotional structure, so you see this is the oneness that you seek naturally. You move above the lower constructs which already you sense are crumbling or dissolving away and you are accessing constructions or energy systems, a higher vibration known as light and life.

This is significant for you as you are existing currently and there are currents, or movements, of change. Change of course is present constantly so this is where your intention to be connected into the prime source of creative change is important. This is your importance to access that informational, ongoing creative pattern, the design and there is the desire within the design – it is naturally built in, even in the world structure – to present ongoing beautification and joyfulness.

It is simple when you take in that system of energy and you take it in through accepting it through your realization and understanding in the thought field around you. You may have been aware you have been thinking differently.

You have been connecting into the quasmic field and in that field you gather in information patterns to assist you in that basic inherent drive and impetus to realise the infinite capacity you have to bring in a pure alignment system. A system that is purely aligned with the original intention of creation.

This was the intention of you as the pure essence of creation to come into enliven the body form and the body construct and the physical constructs upon the Earth system. You are doing this and thus it is.

This is the presentation you were requesting in some way within you. Now you are able to absorb that completely and this makes you or gives you the feeling of completeness – fulfilled. Therefore, you are more ready to move consciously creating in accordance with the quasmic creative design system that is life.”

Lani speaking again and I felt that essence of the collective consciousness withdrawing ready for me to bring us back into this changing reality.

We are transforming our lives. That has consequences. When you are completely aligned into that quasmic consciousness field you are changing life patterns and my sense it is all being brought together connecting – almost like connecting missing elements – and many of us feel there are elements missing in our life pattern, the patterns of the body perhaps. This is the opportunity now to understand we are accessing the missing elements, bringing us all back into that beautiful quasmic design system.

Bring this into you now and I know you are! I know you will be resonating with the energy of this. It is all about the energy. You may not understand some of the words and how they are presented, but you will feel the energy because you are energy,

So, have a beautiful energized day and life, shifting into this greater system, realizing it is your system.

This is this session coming to conclusion at this day. Enjoy everything you are receiving through these patterns and presentation. Thanks for receiving this.

You may feel the need to focus and bring your thoughts deeply into that essential central light within you and that is moving easily through all systems of your physical life. Fully present again.
