Markers. The result. Significant Time

Hello, Lani bringing you these energy information sessions.

Today again as we gather in this cyberspace, in this multi-dimensional field, we are together as one unit because the energy frequency pattern that we connect with is the same frequency that is our core energy essence. The core energy of us that exists deeply within each one of us. When we recognise that, it is easier to connect into that one frequency which also assists us to assemble together in the collective consciousness space defined as the station of light.

It is here that we are more easily able to raise our frequency to receive the energy and information coming through the word patterns.

Here we are beginning the session already because you are probably already feeling the shift of energy around you, within you. And so it is.

“In entering and presenting yourself into the collective consciousness addressing you, you have already opened to receive the energy frequency that is needed for you as an individual life essence Being. There are variable components of that, naturally, because your intelligent frequency will draw upon what is available in the quantum matrix field that you all know exists.

This is present around you and because you assemble here in this space you have stepped beyond any frequency patterns that are not in harmony with this overall quasmic energy field. You simply separated yourself from that in the simple act of focusing with your intention of being in this energy field –the quasmic energy field that you would recognize is beyond what has been technically created. We remind you of this. It is necessary for you to understand this.

The energy frequency you are in also has many markers presented to you. The markers are significant equations and matrix connectors in the energy prime system that you come to when you recognize you have a realization which shifts you more into this quasmic intelligent system.

Doing this separates you entirely from disturbances that exist in the denseness of the population around your existing planetoid and it moves you immediately to the position of clarifying yourself.

So, you have come into the nexus point within this energy matrix of the quasmic intelligent system and the energy is directly focused upon you. We have simply enabled you to be within the frequency pattern which allows you to connect more clearly with the intersection that is necessary for you.

We may use different terms to your common language speaking, so this shifts you into the sensing and the feeling of what is referred to. Feeling this, you will already be sensing, knowing, that you have received in these few moments of connecting, everything that you have needed. You have simply received it. You have allowed yourself to connect to the exact marker point that directs you into the clearer connection, always.

There is a result from this. There is a significant shifting in the frequency fields which exist around the planet and it is necessary for this shifting to occur so that more gateways will open to the planetoid itself to receive the quasmic frequency.

This is the greater scale whereas you are receiving it individually in the scale of – if you want to do measurements to compare yourself with it – but you are receiving the same energy frequency which creates the adjustments and openings in your perception.

You have progressed to this point of realizing it yourself. There is really no one other person who can do this for you. They can guide you into the necessary connecting points in the overall matrix of the quasmic field and then it is up to you to receive the pattern, the frequency, the alignment, the enlightenment.

This is how you have received this in this session and it has been referred to you at different times that this is a time period of awakening, of enlightenment. There have been successive intersections described as the timing for you to receive such energy information patterns and we are speaking about different civilizations.

There is inherent in you a memory recall of moments when you have reached this point – this intersecting point – and the markers have been along the way to direct you to this intersection in this time-space dimension frequency where it is all one, there is no separateness of time or space. It is one field of receptivity, of energy information frequency. It is the quasmic design system.

Receive this, as you are. This is the presentation to you in this gathering. You will feel yourself withdrawing from this gathering.”

Thank you. This is Lani again speaking and the withdrawing that was mentioned is withdrawing from this gathering in this station of light, so that you bring the entirety of the energy field you have connected with – you bring it into your – shall we say your personality physicality stage? The presentation of you in the stage of your life, the story of your life, the creation of your life.

So, with the energy presentation you are recreating the story of your life. Are you creating this beautiful story in an ongoing way? I am sure you will. This is our intention.

Now it is my intention that you bring the energy, as I do for myself, deeply within your individual energy field. Feel the difference in the energy field around you in your space – your personal space. You may feel that has widened and strengthened and this is also part of bringing the enlightening frequency pattern in you, around you, through you, connecting into the consciousness of the Earth-being itself.

This is important. It is an important state and placement of the life that is you. Enjoy this.

Make sure you are fully connected into how we measure where we are placed in our localized time-space – the area where you are creating life.

We will connect again. I have not fixed a date for next Thursday, but whenever it is the appropriate energy to connect, I will present another session. Thank you. Enjoy whatever you do coming up to the end of this calendar year.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.
