Collective Consciousness Field You are the Sensor Basic Principles

Lani speaking and I welcome you to this session.

A new day, a new concept, a new view of life, perhaps? Are you feeling the expansion and almost like awakening to change? This is what I feel is happening around us, within us and through us and as we gather as a group, drawing in from different spaces in time and the realities that exist around this planet, we come together as one field of consciousness.

Your individual field of consciousness merges with the intention of the greater field of consciousness, of the group, which is to enhance, awaken and go beyond all limits you may be aware of, or unaware of, that exist in our life pattern.

To help us with this, we meet together in an assembly space and this is what we call the Station of Light. Here you are. You have relaxed your body; you have shut out the external world and presented yourself into this greater dimensional existence.

“We acknowledge your presence, we who are named the collective consciousness and we move into this collective consciousness rather than identifying as specific individual Beings of light energy and information or from this location or that location, simply because you and we exist multi dimensionally and we are not confined to one name or one placement.

This will help you understand why we are simply a collective consciousness voicing through this presenter of this information to you. You are part of this and you are drawing the energy and information through in such a way that you perhaps can relate it to what is happening around your physicality or perhaps simply you are more aware of a different civilization indeed, beyond what you would call the normal, logical, intellectual space.

It is in this collective consciousness field that the greater dimensional existences come more clearly around you and you understand them more clearly and in that understanding you realise you have the ability to connect with the energy field for whatever you know is needed for you, by you, or around you.

This is the presentation of yourself within the quasmic energy field and the creativeness that you arrived in your current physical state to present this into the world, to change what became apparent perhaps in your life experience and the flowingness of experience through your life to this point that you feel is not exactly attuned to the pure design principle.

You will be aware of changes actively promoted and introduced into the consciousness of the greater population existing on the planet. This is where we say to you to view what is happening in comparison with what you feel and what you resonate with as the true creative design principle.

This is the accurate testing. You become the instrument to analyze and test and investigate what is being presented to you. You do this as an internal inspection because you have sensors, you might say they are extra-ordinary sensors in your receiving energy field. It is all around you and when you become more aware of this, you become more aware of what is out of tune with the quasmic creative design. You then are able to automatically correct what you experience or what you see around you – you automatically correct it to be correctly connected to the pure principle of design.

This is a major purpose of you, your consciousness, presenting itself into the current life experience in the changing civilization around you.

Civilizations continuously change, of course. You as an individual continually change in expansion of consciousness and in the concept and materialization of your physical form. This is what we call your physicality and your true essence is connected wholly to that physicality situation and you are designed to change that, to increase the vitality.

You may think you are this wonderful perfectly healthy individual and yet perhaps you sense you have the capacity for more. This is the way you do it.

You do it by the continuous reconnection into the higher frequency pure design system which itself is feeding you continuously with the elemental constituents of the prime source code. It is codes, in a sense, which you receive – you resonate with them because they are energy frequency and this enhances your individual energy frequency.

This settles many situations that arise within you or around you. Realise this. Make it real within your concept of your physicality and that is to do with your body mind concept and that comes in tune and alignment with your quasmic intelligent system.

This perhaps explains more of the presentations that you have been receiving and helps you to interpret the energy frequencies you are currently receiving as enhancement, as purification. This is what is presented to you on a daily basis.

Continue to resonate with the highest frequency – the pure design system – and it continues to unfold.

This is our presentation to you in this session in this gathering space.

We withdraw now”

I am Lani fully present here with you again in this space.

Do you perceive what is around you in this gathering space? You will have been aware perhaps of changing frequencies during the presentation. It may have brought up memories in you, it may be something else.

For now, you are able to connect more deeply and bring the energy frequency pattern that you were immersed within and bring that into your present physicality and that includes time as we measure it in the flowingness of experience. In these few minutes that we have gathered you may have had a powerful realisation which immediately changes what had been within you or around you, in accordance with this enhanced frequency pattern.

It is simple. This is why I enjoy bringing you into these presentations – it is the simplicity of it that often we resonate with.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.
