What is the Earth Planet?

Hello, Lani with you again, helping you to enter the quiet space within yourself – your true essence – and from there you are able to settle the external circumstances around you – or settle your responses to them – and allow yourself to be focused as your essential light being self. In this way it is easier to gather as a group and be present in the area of the Station of Light.

It is in this state that we merge into the greater field of consciousness and this allows the information to come through from the collective consciousness, from the greater Beings of existence.

These are multiple dimensions we are speaking about and you and me and together we draw energy and information from a collective multi-dimensional frequency. You might say levels of consciousness.

Each time we meet together with the intention of exploring or unfolding to the greatest consciousness field, then we are creating a pattern around where we live individually and certainly around the Earth station planet and maybe beyond that.

Here we are – we are stationed here and ready to receive this energy information session.

“Welcome. You are well coordinated into the essential central group. There are many of you who come in frequently to re-enter this space, to perhaps tune yourself into a higher frequency to recharge yourself and recharge aspects of your life which you bring in around you.

This is a function, or an aspect, of your individuality that you knew you would be doing – the essential consciousness that is you. You knew you would be actively bringing in higher frequency in a sense, to nourish the land, nourish the people, nourish the entirety of the planet system.

You understand there is a higher degree of activity within and around the Earth Station, and so in this gathering there is a consistent balancing occurring.

There are many elements that have been introduced into the system within the Earth environment that have created disturbances and consequently there is a higher frequency needed to come in for balancing, for clearing, for upliftment, in the same way that you receive all those elements when you tune back into the greatest consciousness of creation – the pure design system.

The areas that have become unbalanced.

There is a combination of energy systems in the quantum field of consciousness to put aside the imbalances and the creators of those, to bring the harmony and activity of restructuring the Earth system back to its original potential and the intention of what the Earth planet is in the entirety of the system.

It is one component in the quantum field that is consciousness that is creation.

So, when we focus upon your system known as the Earth system, then there is consequently a shift in the evolvement of other systems. Likewise, Earth system itself is receiving information patterns, energy systems, necessary.

There is the quantum field recognized here. It is a particle of the entire quantum field. The energy matrix we have often referred to connects in a frequency pattern all the components of creation.

Everything is evolving. You are evolving. Allow yourself to come into the original pure design system. Frequency. Connecting. Receiving.

This is the basic principle of your life.

Shifting your understanding into recognizing that basic principle of your life shifts many of the conditions around you that you perceive. It alters frequency because you are altering your frequency with a shift of focus and intention, realizations. This is required. This brings you back into your original intention and the basic information pattern that exists in the consciousness field from your source – your point of origin.

As you receive the energy of these words you may be also receiving an adjustment that you feel, shifting within you. There can be areas that have been, you could say, compromised and you compromised your initial well-being.

Again, this is bringing you back to the original principle of the pure design system of life.

Receive this fully. This changes systems of you. It changes systems within the immediate environment that you call the planet Earth and there is the consequential adjustment in the quantum field.

Let this be.”

Lani speaking again, bringing your attention back into you and relating your present life circumstances into what has been presented during this session.

This, you might say, shifts everything – whatever that might mean for you individually and collectively as the ones receiving this.

Bring it all into your true innerself – your true heart centre, we might say – into the wellness centre within you – the pure energy of life and so bring your attention with all of this back into your locality, your physicality, right into you and bring your attention back into time as we measure it.

Events have changed. There have been major shifts during the few minutes that you have been in a different field of consciousness – a state of freeness- freedom.

Enjoy this energy - it is an ongoing and unfolding system from this moment.

Thank you for being here, receiving this and sharing it in your own way.

This ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal.
