Correction Process. More Vibrant in all Realities

Hello. Lani speaking to you and drawing you into this inner space. It is your inner space and it is my inner space and it is not confined to any specific location, except as we start, we are within an Earth location, if you are situated here on Earth. There may be some of you who tune in and you are not situated on planet Earth. I would love to hear about that!

Now, in this space together we shift consciousness. We shift our senses and perception to be in a different state of consciousness and it is that state of consciousness that allows us to receive in a different way.

As a place to assemble and to receive in a different way, we materialize, we enter into what is called the Station of Light. It is in a sense static, it is stationed, in position, in our consciousness field. Many of us probably knew about it before we came to be born into this body form. It may be a receiving space we have moved in and out from multiple times. Most of us who are here feel very comfortable, we feel we know this space. It could be a station to move into.

We hear concepts such as this presented through our storytellers and this is the reality where you have come to be with me today to receive. So, we allow ourselves to open to receive what will come through in this space today.

“Welcome. You have entered this field, a continuation field for you. The continuation works individually for each one of you because you receive it in a different way.

Your energy field is individual to you and therefore you receive specific frequency patterns that you would hear as specific words or colours or phrases and these are all related to your perception and what you need to hear and receive in this way.

You partly created this space that you have entered. A space where you could remove yourself from daily activities and functions and to open to a greater freedom in expression, freedom in movement. You could move beyond this gathering space here into a different concept of reality where you would be mixing and gathering with different Beings again.

The central information process remains the same. You will receive in whatever reality you move into exactly the frequency pattern you need.

Many people on Earth are continuing and perhaps you are continuing to utilize energy to become free from constraints and distorted information patterns that you have existed in mostly within the physical body. We continue this energy reminding you as you absorb the energy field here you are absorbing the clearance and new information to provide new growth patterns for your natural extension of the natural life process for the perfect human body based on the model that was put forward through consciousness to be received.

This is still presented. The original process and pattern, the original design is still being presented to you. Therefore, as you continue to move into this quasmic field – the supportive field – you are continuing the redesign and perhaps correction of the old design, to facilitate the pure design order.

Understand from this, as this process continues and you become more vibrant, your life energy essence is more vibrant and your physicality is more vibrant, this affects the overall connected network of the mass consciousness. It provides pathways for other people to recognize and link with. It is part of the correction process that is delivered in a continuing fashion through the solar portal to the galactic field of realities. The quasmic field of realities.

You are receiving it in the reality you might consider to be this lifetime on Earth.

There are parts of your consciousness existing, the same consciousness as you, but existing in different realities – quasmic galactic realities – receiving the same information pattern from the original construction, if you use that term, of a body form.

It is receiving a continuing flow of vital frequency to enable it to exist and coexist in the quantum field of creation.

You may be experiencing a feeling of settling within you. There can be a natural response which arises initially in the human physicality of anxiety or questioning or perhaps blocking of information which might feel too powerful for you. In collective gatherings as this, none of that exists. There is simply receptivity of the quasmic frequency pattern enhancing you in every way and so as you absorb this, you are enhancing the frequency pattern that surrounds where you are living.

Remember – multi realities but also remember the singularity existence that you focus everything from within the presentation that you identify as your true light frequency pattern and system.

This brings it all back into you now, fully integrating it whilst you are within this collective consciousness field. Already you are feeling it as a response where your physicality is, receiving it in multi ways. Thus you are reporting to yourself the new frequency pattern.

This is required for you at this time. This is with you.”

Lani speaking again.

I am coming back into the single reality that I identify as this personality with the given name of Lani – a chosen name – and thus I am able to identify in the physicality we exist in together and this enables us all to come back – its almost like being teleported back into where you are physically receiving this. Do you see the similarities between what people might say is science fiction – just stories of imagination – but here we are – we receive these when we connect into the quasmic information energy field.

Personally I find this very satisfying and confirming.

Now, go about your activities in this newly enhanced way. In a sense I am celebrating this within each one of us.

Take this into you now and this ends this session through the Omega Communications Portal. Come back and visit frequently to refresh yourself in any session that you listen to or read through Omega Communications, coming to you from Auckland, New Zealand.

Thank you.

Lani
