Immersed and Refueled The Light System

Hello, Lani speaking with you and opening this session, this gathering that you are participating in already and you probably have created the information that will come through to you in words, but more importantly, in the energy that you receive. You receive it when you open to the true essence of you – the source of your inspiration and the quasmic intelligence of creation.

Does this excite you? Does this encourage and inspire you to move more deeply into being who you truly are? This true essence of you. So, come and let's explore together the inner space of the collective consciousness – the greater creative intelligence of creation and this is the quantum – the quasmic – intelligent system of all life.

You are that. You are the quantum intelligent system of your life, so as you absorb that and feel it within you, we have already begun this session as a gathering. We have gathered together in an intention to receive more through the communication of the quantum intelligent system – the collective – also commonly known as the Council of Light, perhaps the Council of Nine. Do these words, these labels, identify something within you? Do they ring a bell? This is the way we begin today, being inspired already.

“So it is and as we come forward and envelop you in this space and you feel you are immersed within this field of consciousness, in a sense you may experience a stepping forward into the expanded reality.

The reality exists around you of, perhaps, new creations, new cities of light, new dimensional aspects and what they mean for you and how you can realise the deeper essence of your own central intelligence. This is what we have always been leading you to realise that when you connect to your original point of existence, your point of origin, that opens up the connecting point – that is the nexus – a coming together of the information patterns that you know exist and that you have been working to fully manifest these, to fully realise it, to come into realization within your existence currently where you are aware you are receiving this.

This changes reality that you have experienced or lived.

You are a collection of all the experiences many of which you will remember, many of which you will not remember consciously, but the body changes in accordance with the experiences and reactions that are an automatic self-defence system, or protective system, where there becomes activated thought patterns. The thought patterns can have been imposed on you by training, by what you hear and learn and pick up from the lower content of civilization and of course there is an emotional response.

What we speak about here in gatherings such as this, you are outside of that limitation. You are restoring yourself in every way by connecting to the original point of your creation. We are guiding you to do this. It is, as you expand your concept of this, it is the oneness of the quasmic field of creation and you have emerged from that and when you feel you have disconnected from that in any way through your response to experiences, this is the opportunity and reminder to fully reconnect again

As you are experiencing the energy you are immersed within during this forthcoming system around you, you are already emptying yourself. You are allowing yourself to be emptied of those emotional responses which have, in a way, altered the mechanism of your entire energy system.

Remember, you are an electrical-type system. You are an energy system yourself. An energy system can be and is perpetuated by reaching into the pure source of energy again for refreshment. It activates the systems within you that produce more energy.

This is the true refueling that you take into you during immersion within the quasmic intelligent system of your life. Nothing else exists. This is the presentation. You are presenting yourself into this nexus where you receive the quantumness of the ongoing system that is life.

Many of you have come to the point where you realise there had been something more that was needed in your life support system. This is what we bring you into during these immersion sessions, immersed within the field.

It is for you to experience it and feel the systemic change within you, altering factors that had not been completely in tune, synchronized or resonating with this quantum intelligent field. That is what it is all about. That is what you call healing. It is bringing you into that state of receptivity of being immersed and being receptive in the immersion in the field.

This is what you are bringing through to your consciousness in this session. Remember, every moment that you are immersed in this pure intelligent field of creation in the nexus points that exist throughout the matrix of consciousness, expanded and existing in all creation, beyond Earth – Earth is just one nexus point within the quantum field – every time you immerse yourself within this, you receive new inspiration. It activates the systems within you and it brings them into the exact pattern again, the frequency needed. Pure connection. Filling you, infusing you in the core intelligence of you – the system. You are a natural receiver of this pure frequency pattern – the light system.

This is all that is required. This is within you and thus we have delivered you the information in this session.”

Lani speaking again and you will be feeling the gentle withdrawing from the information being presented through words, but you take in the energy you responded to.

It is the true feeling, the true immersion and refreshment – refueling in free energy (which is quite appropriate in the world situation currently). You are refueling yourself fully and freely – as you are designed to be.

This is what you bring forward now deeply and strongly into your bodily system, your physicality, located where your physical system is. You may feel there are only a few words and yet the energy pattern is vast that you immersed yourself in and this is directly infusing you, because you simply allowed yourself to receive it and bring it into the reality you are creating. Breathe it into you and as you breathe out naturally, you are bringing yourself fully back into the physicality, but you will be sensing the difference, the change that has occurred from when you entered this session. That is the joy of living consciously, receiving the information pattern of the quasmic field of intelligence. It tells you much.

Bring yourself into time as we currently measure it. Thank you for being part of this gathering and this ends this session through Omega Communications. Take it all within you. Feel you are constantly within a very strong energy field. It gets stronger every day, the more you immerse yourself consciously into it.

That is my closing comment to you. Thank you.
