Living Intelligent System Components

I am Lani speaking to you and hosting this session, again welcoming you into this space. I welcome you as if we are together and in our energy bodies – our greater awareness- we could be in a bubble, an energy sphere, travelling through time and space travelling through different realities. Perhaps some of you have always gathered together in the simple intention of being consciously present wherever the physical body is as well as the energy, the essence, the true consciousness that you are.

As you absorb the intention of this, our energy sphere moves into that collective gathering known as the Station of Light.

You have been here many times, whether through these Omega Communications or in some other way where you have gathered with a greater expanded consciousness, Beings, a space, a state of awareness, and here you are again.

This is how we begin today.

“As we welcome you into this space as the Collective Consciousness, but speaking individually to you, there are members of you – people - ones of you – particular beings of you who feel you are being addressed by one entity – one Being. This is what you relate to. This is what you bring forward so you are more easily able to assimilate the frequency pattern.

It is all about frequency, light, energy, information patterns, patterns of frequency which deliver concepts and understanding, realizations, information to you, into your form. Even into your highly intelligent receptive energy form here you continue to assimilate the information patterns contained here.

This is how consciousness expands. This is how you expand into the creative consciousness field of all life. This is creationism. This is how you have created your individual life and are you continuing to create your ongoing life journey experiences, unfolding it more and expanding it more strongly as you assimilate the energy frequency?

This is informed directly into the physical – if you call it physical – cellular structures.

You remember, cell structures are information receivers and inbuilt into every cell there are constituents, you might say there are memory components, there are activity components, there are assimilation, there are filtering components within every cell.

The energy you assimilate in sessions such as this you are delivering it through your conscious intelligent system into the very base structure that you recognize as your physical form and structure. It is a living intelligent system.

From this you create new systems in your living experience. This is how creators design new living spaces, new ways of communicating. What you need to be aware of is - are they creating from the pure design system or are they creating from thoughts that they might use to control other beings or states of consciousness, or to create artificial energy systems which perhaps you would take into your body in food.

Be aware of the pure design that is the natural component of the energy system known as this planetoid you are existing on and within and you participate in the ongoing expansion of that.

Therefore, what you are creating must incorporate the natural elements of the pure creative design system. It is patterns of frequency of light and your intelligent body system is designed to assimilate those natural patterns and processes of energy frequency, or light systems. This is what you are designed as.

There is always the exchange of energy once you absorb what you are receiving in the concepts of what is being given to you. You then will be participating in the unfolding of that within your physical life circumstances and is this what you would be wanting to bring into your life?

Are you able to assimilate on a deeper level now and to create on a deeper level utilizing the frequency patterns that are natural to you? You have absorbed them naturally. You bring them into place throughout your physical system. You are influencing other natural systems in your living world experience. Have you realized this?

You may bring in streams of energy information. There are those of you who would want to make it into a Person or Being, but remember it is the energy behind that which you are receiving and to enable you to receive it you may have put a face or a name into the energy that you are naturally receiving. Remember what is behind the personage you have created so that you would receive readily.

You always must tap into the prime system of creation. You know what that is.

From this area where you are communicating with us and we are communicating with you – it is an exchange of information – be aware that you can observe planetoid Earth around you. Perhaps you overview it. Would you surround it with the incoming peaceful yet creative systems of light to enhance all living communities that are based upon the principle of the original creative source pattern? This is what you are doing. We are showing you from this point of view.

As you assimilate this and bring it back into being aware of your system of light here, your body light system, remember already you are taking it into you in every way, into every state of your reality that you might say is your physicality. This is naturally absorbed because it is the natural process that your energy system recognizes and accepts.

This is your experience today.”

Lani speaking again and as that energy system withdraws from us a little and yet we withdraw from it and as we withdraw we are drawing into each one of us the energy frequency patterns received that are appropriate for each one of us here. There is an individual need and there is the collective need for the collective consciousness that we exist in and through.

This is where you again bring your awareness into being within the energy sphere that delivered us into this collective consciousness state and so you use this to facilitate the easy restoration of the light system, your nonphysical body system, completely merging into the energy field and system of your physical life.

This is an inheritance. You have inherited the basic pure design system of creation - originality. Point of origin – and this is your enhancement, or perhaps you utilize it in a different way for your ongoing life journey using this body to bring in more light patterns and as you do that, it acts as a clearance system throughout the body and enhancing it in every way, enhancing it, bringing it into the pure design for the human body.

Thank you for receiving this. You will be assimilating it over the times you read this.

This ends this session through Omega Communications.
