Dynamic Frequency
Happiness. Creativity
Reinvesting self with Energy

This is an energy system that you link in with. A group, because it is a group I started up in 1988. Now we belong as an individual connecting in at whatever time, whatever year, that you choose to link in with any of these messages.

The energy flows through because you allow it to flow through and as I open these meetings, as Lani, it allows you to relax, open your mind and yet go further beyond your mind into your true essence – your greatest aware energy field self. It is as if it is a different system from the mind and yet the mind is part of who and what you are as you present yourself into this life journey.

Now present yourself into the next aspect of your life journey, coming with all of us, assembling, meeting in the meeting space known as the Station of Light.

“You are here; you are one with us. There is no separation because the vibration that you are is the same vibration that exists and you coexist and you cocreate with the quasmic energy field – the pure aspect of creation.

We continue to remind you to connect to the source of creation – your original point of origin and there is only one point of origin. There is only one creative state of energy frequency patterns. It is a pattern. You are a pattern identifying as a separate unit, as a separate human being and yet you are one of the pattern – a greater pattern that exists.

The effect of this as you acknowledge it and allow yourself to be in that oneness, creates different types of civilization. It creates a different energy field around you and you are bringing the creation in through you from your point of origin.

There may be a different reason, a different vibration, that you bring into your physical life system and yet it is all one of the pure essence of creation.

The point of helping you understand this is that you let go of the power – perhaps the pressure – that you have allowed yourself to receive or respond to from situations and experiences which are not from the pure point of origin. When you are fully immersed in the frequency of that, your life pattern changes.

The pattern of the frequency, the vibration of you that you know as you changes and it changes to be resonating with the purest dynamic frequency of creation.

We say the words dynamic frequency because it adjusts and changes in accordance with the higher frequency which comes in. It is not fixed. It is changing, it is dynamic and it alters frequency patterns that perhaps have been stagnant within you as an energy Being.

Remember, the pure energy state of you is in a constant existence of change, of raising frequency patterns and that itself discharges, eliminates, patterns that are falsely present or may be falsely present in your energy field.

Now that we have brought you into this state, realize you are here participating with us as we move, moving through different connecting points, nexus points, through civilization, throughout galaxies, throughout - simply creation.

We move with you. You move with us. You move us in the direction that you wish to attain the memory or energy for you – the frequency patterns. There are frequency patterns existing that you remember and you are at a junction point in your present existence where you are bringing in frequency patterns which you know will help generate more energy frequency – you could say more happiness, more creativity, correcting what has been viewed now as incorrect creations in many different civilizations.

A misuse of thought. A misuse of structure. A misuse of natural structure and energy creation.

You are coming into the point and you are moving with us into precise nexus points – you might say locations where you are accessing more frequency patterns to help you as you exist in the current situation in your world.

Your world may be a world of belief systems. Your world may be a world of what is presented to you that you have followed until you realise that was not consistent with the inner beingness of you – the intuition you have – the greater awareness which comes from your connection to your point of origin.

You readily interpret what is false, simply because it is not in coherence with the pure origin of creation. This will help you understand situations you may be experiencing currently, because you have brought those situations into this gathering with us in the oneness and you have shared it simply through the energy systems you have presented with yourself here in this gathering.

You will have received answers and the patterns of energy – light energy information – necessary to assist you and assist others as you assist yourself and you are reinvesting within all of your totality of your physicality and nonphysicality -you are reinvesting that with the prime intelligent frequency systems.

As you allow this to be assimilated within you, this was the purpose of coming into this gathering today for you.

It is with you.”

Lani speaking again and now having received all this information I help you bring it back into your physical life pattern and the nonphysical life pattern – everything that is you

Remember, you are more than just the physical body form with a label which is the name that you have as an identification. When we are in that collective consciousness state names are not necessary. We simply are vibrational frequency Beings – and you always are a vibrational frequency Being.

Now bring this back to be fully aware of where you are receiving this and the moment in time as we like to measure time and function in and through time as an experience here.

This ends this session through Omega Communications.

Now you will be adjusting and reinvesting yourself with this energy. This is a great way to end this session. Thank you.

Lani
