Change Your Reality? Questions

This is a state of energy, a group of energy that you have been drawn to, to come in and receive more supportive energy for you and it is really only helping you to step into the supportive field that you are cocreating, that you are initiating and you are initiating yourself to move into the field – the frequency field of energy that is very natural to you.

I am Lani and I am bringing you into this deeper state of awareness again.

Are you prepared – are you willing – to set aside your daily tasks and your daily thoughts, random thoughts, perhaps random disturbing thoughts? Are you willing to set aside those and to step into your greater awareness?

It is like rising above the clouds into a clear atmosphere. In a sense this is what you are doing as we assemble in that Station of Light – a state – a dimension of existence that is above all disturbance. This is where you have come into today to receive and you will receive what you are drawing into yourself. It is as simple as that.

“Now that you have presented yourself into this awareness, we will begin.

We and you are of the collective consciousness – the quantum field of creation, so these episodes that you move into to reconnect to the pure state of your existence all help and assists and clears any what you would call static, or a state of disturbance.

It is like there is a reality system that you tap into which you have accepted and believed to be true. When you search beyond that and you move above those clouds as was described to you and you move into the clearness of your true connected state of creation, this is where a settling occurs. It might be a settlement within you of questions that had arisen all through your life pattern. Perhaps you have been questioning why different events happen around you or around the planetary system. The answers always come from you when you connect into your purest state of consciousness.

There are, you would say, different aspects of different states of consciousness and yet your purpose is always to consciously connect to the pure design system of creation.

You could say in one sense you are creating a new state for planetary system Earth.

We leave you some moments to pause and consider what we are saying.

We are saying to you, reminding you, of what you know already – that from your pure design system you are designing the pure state of coordination all throughout the civilization as you know it to be currently that your body is existing in and your pure state of consciousness has come into self create the body system, perhaps to improve it and to clear false statements or false belief systems that have affected the body system and as well as that, you are bringing in the pure design system for the body intelligent form and for the body intelligent form that you know as the planet and this in turn must of course assist the clearing of the civilization of false belief systems that become implanted, that become believed and so it becomes a reality system.

Shifting your consciousness into the pure design system changes your reality system.

Feel comfortable with this. Feel this is you changing the reality system that you think about as you, the person with a name label. This is the most important state of you as you fully realise that you are this pure design system and you are creating the design system that you recognize as your physicality body system.

This is the base of your life. The principle of light, of absorbing more light, absorbing more frequency as it flows in as you allow it to flow into you and you draw it into the housing of you – the body that houses you, the pure design intelligence and you are conscious of this.

There are many disturbances you may be aware of around you, around your civilization – the state of civilization – of the planetoid itself.

Remember your prime focus is always to bring in the pure design system.

You may not observe the effect of this immediately. This is where your consciousness, your quasmic field, understands what is happening as you bring in the pure design frequency. It is pulsed to you continuously through the light system that is a creative system.

We have spoken previously about the solar portal gateway and the main nexus point it is, the connecting point for everything that exists around your current sun – the solar portal. There is a consistent emanation of the vital frequencies that you are drawing into you as you continue to create your pure design system for life, for the life of the body, for the life of the environment that you exist within.

This session is a pure reminder for you of your pure design – that is the original design of life of you, the essence of you as you design and redesign the patterns of your current existence in time, as you use your measurement and you call it time.

This what you drew into you in this meeting point – this interconnection – this nexus point – in your reality.

Thus you have received it."

Acknowledged. Lani speaking again and I acknowledge all of the presentation received and as you acknowledge it yourself, that means you are accepting the base element of your life again. Back in tune again. You can utilize any session brought to you through Omega Communications or you can utilize this session, bookmark it, save it, return to it any time you feel you need inner strength again or perhaps your pathway cleared, or any way you have a need to recharge yourself.

It is a great system that perhaps we have created from the point of intelligent creation, presenting it to ourselves again, offering the gateway, the pathway, for each one of us individually.

This is the session today and you will already be absorbing it into the depth of what you call your body system in Earth time that we know as a measurement.

This I leave with you and this ends this session through Omega Communications.

Always make sure you are fully consciously present. This means you bring in the presentation of your quasmic self into the reality you are creating. This is it. Thank you.

Lani
