Consciousness is an Energy System Clearing data accumulated in your energy

Lani speaking to you and drawing you in together with many of us who tune in regularly to the collective consciousness field, the quantumness that exists. You exist because of the quantumness of creation. This is the field that we naturally gravitate to and so it is as if we gather together as one consciousness and in a very deep level of creative source energy, we are of one consciousness. We move into that supportive field and it is recognised as the collective consciousness and as a state of energy consciousness.

This is the purpose of these sessions – to allow yourself to take time off from the physical world and to recharge yourself within the quantumness of consciousness. I cannot define it more than that.

Here we are again, ready to continue the journey into fulfilling what you feel is the purpose for the true essence of you and the body of you to be present in this civilization.

“You are welcomed into this collective frequency pattern that you know as the Station of Light and indeed it is a state of consciousness. When you feel, when you understand, that consciousness is an energy system, this is likened to what you call light frequency.

Here you are within the frequency pattern that you know as light.

Your energy system - complete – that is, your non physical energy system, the true essence of you from creative source – and the physical energy system of you – is all frequency patterns. These function at various degrees of frequency, of course, and the purpose of different frequencies is to continue the smooth running of your physical apparatus life in conjunction with the incoming flow of energy field which motivates, which enervates, energizes you, with innovative creative ideas and concepts and these you receive in the nonphysical state of consciousness. This is where you are assembled receiving this.

We observe you as a nonphysical entity.

You are recognized as a physical locality and physicality system, but we address the energy field of you – this consciousness that is open and allows the frequency pattern to be absorbed.

It is similar to you opening the windows of your vehicle, of your home, and allowing fresh light systems to come in. This is what you are doing. You have opened your receptors in your nonphysical state of presence here.

This is filled with potential and opportunities and the frequencies which will help you to realise and manifest the energy frequency pattern you are needing – you are wanting and needing for the physical pattern of you to continue,

There is always the presentation of these frequencies, and it is more than receiving the greater enlivening pattern of frequency. This naturally uses the frequency pattern to clear whatever you have brought in with you in your nonphysical presence here.

This is naturally presented. It is not a conscious thought because whatever you think you need the energy for may not be the true source that is needing the frequency pattern.

We observe you as a one frequency pattern and we observe the field around you and when you naturally bring yourself into this creative energy field, the quasmic energy state of consciousness, there is the natural relinquishing of what had been held within the energy field in whatever state of consciousness it had been receiving and accumulating data.

When you move into this quantum field, your data storage energy systems are cleansed, they are cleared and you have the opportunity again to revitalize and bring in the quantum field of creation for you.

This sets in motion more physical creative concepts that have been perhaps in the conscious mind. This delivers the way, the opportunity, the frequency pattern of how to implement the concepts you have in your mind system. You bring it in as a very clear concept for the community that is existing within the planetary consciousness field.

You are the system, when you bring in this pattern of consciousness, you are the system that is similar to a filtration system for the energy that you immerse yourself within in your daily activity.

This has no limit upon it. Your energy field is capable of filtration, of clearing, of uplifting, of creating new manifested type civilizations based on the pure basic principles of a natural creative system.

This is the purpose of you receiving this information – to remind you of this.

Receiving this as you do, you are already being that light frequency vessel, the channel, bringing it in through your entire physicality energy system, you are bringing it into the field in which you exist. Likewise, wherever your consciousness is existing in some other life form, this pattern is occurring. It might be occurring for you here and now in your current living circumstances because elsewhere the consciousness part of you in the quasmic field is doing this same pattern of enhancement and you are receiving it as well.

This is the expanded field of the expression of you of the presentation of the original point of creation everywhere.

Remember this. Feel it and be it and most of all, accept the frequency pattern from the quasmic creative natural energy field, everywhere.

This is what you were seeking to receive, and thus it is.”

Lani again.

Take in a lovely natural breath. That means you are absorbing the energy frequency pattern you have been immersed within during this session. Breathe this into your life pattern now.

Perhaps it changes you. Perhaps it shifts you into a further expanded field of realization, making life real for you.

The frequency patterns you are receiving naturally through the central source amplifies this for you and this you are bringing right down through you into your feet connected into the consciousness of the planetary system and you receive through the planetary system of consciousness. It is a spiraling energy system constantly receiving and exchanging energy fields.

This is the session today and so this ends this session through Omega Communications.

Remember, every breath you take in consciously and let it out, you are replenishing yourself with the vital frequency patterns needed.

Thank you.

Lani
