Consequence of the quasmic field Utilize the frequency

Hello and Welcome. Lani bringing these sessions through to you and today introducing myself to you in a different way. This is because energy changes. We change, we shift every day, we have realizations, we tune into the quasmic field and we are automatically receiving a different frequency.

This is the way we are beginning today, to join together and be as a presence within the collective consciousness field in the space defined or described as the Station of Light. Of course, this means you have to be relaxed and open and away from distractions in the physical life around you so that you fully receive and process within all states of your existence the energy frequency patterns you will be receiving.

"In this quantum field, in this collective consciousness field, you are always present and yet when you consciously move in and connect as you are as you receive this, you open and accept yourself fully present here. We see you are always fully present, but there are parts of you, levels of your consciousness, that need to be focused into this receptive field for you.

The consequence of this is you are automatically receiving a different process, a different program of energy frequency patterns.

We call it a program. It is not that you are "programmed", but it is a system of unfoldment and a system of gaining and regaining the full presence of you away from any contaminants. It is a refreshing state and space that you move into and this is the pureness of you that chooses to step back into this quasmic field to refresh yourself.

In a sense you restate who you are and you move your presence into the state of quasmic field of the greatest presence that you chose to be and you chose that from your original point of existence. Now you have chosen to regain your presence fully and clearly and even more than you have previously felt yourself to be.

It is quantum and it is always enveloping a further extension of the quantum, or the quasmic, field of the pure design intelligence system.

You are receiving this in multiple dimensions, multiple frameworks that you might say of individuality presence, other life patterns you might define it as.

You are consistently, as a consequence of you here moving into this receptive state, the consequence of that is the essence of your true consciousness simultaneously accepts the quantum field as you expand. You expand and in a sense you could say the quantum field you access expands by your presence.

This is the basic principle again of your consciousness being present and identified as an individual.

During the process of entering into physical time space realities where you could identify yourself as a physical named body, there is the process that you can pick up what has been accumulated in the frequency patterns that exist around the living body system. In effect, when you consciously reconnect to the pure element of creation in the quasmic intelligent field of your very beginning process, you are releasing those fragments that had been existing that you may have picked up on. You then move into the process - you could say you are a clean skin. You are cleared of other systems, other incorporated fragments of experiences.

You are doing this precisely in this moment when you now have consistently presented yourself into the quasmic intelligent field and this we simply call the collective consciousness of the prime system of life.

You have regained your presence. You have regained the sense of balance and more, you have also gained the quasmic intelligent field, clearing again, so that you bring into the life pattern, wherever your life pattern is coexisting, you are bringing into that life pattern an increased aspect of the quasmic intelligent field.

You are creating new matter. You are creating new constructions from the original concept and this exists within your greater consciousness field.

Your intelligence – that is, your pure consciousness – is already accelerating a process that you had been unknowingly needing. This is the consequence of you moving into the pure design system again, refreshment in every way.

You now remember how to utilize these patterns that have been presented to you in this situation gathering process and so this is the deliverance in this session today for you and every day you return to this space in the quasmic field.

We see you.”

Lani speaking again and bringing our focus and attention into this reality that we know we exist in where you recognize my voice

As has been described in this session and the previous session, you could be receiving it through my voice in other life patterns. This is the quasmic intelligent system and you are drawing this into you.

As a consequence of this you will draw it into your life pattern currently and you will feel the ongoing relief or release or perhaps improvement. This is your reality, utilizing the quasmic frequency pattern for you in every way that you exist.

Now it is time for you to focus again as this physicality unit known as you with a name and placement in this world.

Go back to the basic natural environment and this is where you draw upon, shall we say the physical type elements that are needed for you in this time space reality.

Now become aware of the time as we recognize where we are living and experiencing life through time. Fully present. Fully active in every way.

This ends this session through Omega Communications. Thank you.

Lani
