Your Focus. Intelligent Natural Systems. What are your thought patterns creating?

Hello. Lani with you again, bringing you together to come into the beautiful relaxed state where you relax the body, let go of all the chatter that surrounds you and you move into the nonphysical space of you – the essence of you. It is in this space that we easily gather and connect together around the world – around our planet – and we move into the deeper state of the collective consciousness.

This is where the information and energy comes to you and it comes to you in response to whatever you bring in with your presence into this collective consciousness space. It is a quasmic field of energy and information for you.

What are you needing to hear or to understand or to reflect upon during this session and following this session? So, as you are open to receive already, I withdraw and allow that deeper collective consciousness to communicate with us all.

Are you ready?

“In coming forward in the communications, and this is a series of communications that you are participating within, even if this is the first one you have drawn yourself into, you are still participating in an ongoing field and this is the appropriate connection time, the nexus point, where you are receiving energy and information that has been presented previously in different ways.

This is the immediate response in regard to your immediate presence.

So, you see how you influence what is occurring around you. You bring into the pattern of energy that surrounds you exactly what you are attracting to yourself. This is why it is important to raise your frequency – that is, to keep a positive outlook and connecting into the quasmic field of pure joyful creation. This is from the original state of creation for the physical presence of you so that you present it into the physical world you are creating, perhaps altering the creation around in your existing living space, wherever that is.

This is an extra-sensory position that you have placed yourself within in this communication, so be aware of energy systems around you.

They exist perhaps as fields of energy, pockets of energy, balls of energy, streams of energy. They are energetic fields and the fields relate to something that is already within your thought pattern and the thought pattern of course is already existing, has manifested itself in some way in your physicality presence.

Following this, understand that as you maintain your connection into the pure flow of unfolding creation, you are changing what you are interacting with in the energetic field around your physical process. You process experiences through your physical time space reality that is created.

There is always the connection between your physical reality time space and this collective quasmic consciousness field which is a higher frequency. It is a frequency pattern that allows co-creation and the drawing in of the intention of the pure intelligent creation system.

You could understand this to be placing yourself into such a strong, clear frequency pattern that many things do not touch you any more – they are not relevant to become manifested in your physical energy space. In a way you might say it protects you from becoming involved in other patterns that would deregulate your entire system of creation.

So, you are coming back into the system that regulates the natural functions that exist within your cellular programs. Cellular systems are similar to a program that can unfold the creativeness, the correctiveness, the reformation in many ways. This is why we say to you, you are a conscious creator of what you are manifesting within you and around you.

This is all really that needs to be presented to you in your presentation of you into this field.

It will be clarifying some thoughts you have had, otherwise it would not have been presented to you in this way. You can utilize it simply as refreshment, a revitalization of you.

It is a field of energy that your intelligent system that exists within and as your nonphysical presence utilizes within the physicality presence of you and it uses it in the natural ways. The natural ways that are within you know how to utilize the clear frequency you receive when you connect to the pure point of creation. The quasmic consciousness field.

It surrounds your planetary living station and the other intelligent planetary living stations connected in with what is coming through your central sun – through that portal. We remind you of this. You know this already but we bring it into your awareness again as a point of focus. It is a useful point of focus for you to know you have existed beyond Earth time space reality and you are bringing that pureness into Earth time space reality and so you are fulfilling what you chose to bring in, in this physical body you are experiencing life patterns through.

This is what you needed to receive.”

Lani speaking again. This was a short information pattern, perhaps a data dump into you, but it is a concept and you understand the concept through one word that might be spoken that you recognize and the concept of it is received in all of those aspects of you – the nonphysical and the physical, the mind and the emotions actively present as you present in the time space reality you know as Earth.

Here we are – you have had a very quick entry into the quasmic collective consciousness and this is what you are and who you are and why you are physicality present.

Bring yourself back to be aware of time as we measure it and function through, presenting always through time.

This ends this session through Omega Communications. Thanks for receiving this .

Breath in and when you breathe out you will realize you are fully consciously present again from this very deep inner journey.

Lani
