Your Intelligent Energy Codes Remember Resequencing. Changing Patterns

Hello again. Lani speaking and drawing us together to move into that receptive state that is well known to every one of us – our own nonphysical pure light being state of consciousness.

Even though you might be listening to this alone, you are part of a connected consciousness web – a web of light – a web of consciousness existing around you, around each one of us, connected into a unified matrix around the state of consciousness that the planet organism that we live on is existing.

We are within the consciousness of planetoid Earth, but together in these sessions we move into a receptive state connecting into the quantum field of consciousness and this is what we call the collective consciousness for the purpose of receiving light energy and information.

This is how we begin today.

“Indeed, you are present always because you are of the collective consciousness of the quantum field that is consciousness.

You exist because you are a consciousness – a conscious Being – and being consciously present here, you are allowing yourself to absorb even more of the frequency pattern that comprises every element of your existence.

The frequency pattern is codes – so, you are a living expression of energy codes which assemble and which move into a creative field of existence known as your intelligent body form, your intelligent nonphysical body form, the intelligence that is the formation of the planetary system and what you become aware of is an aspect of your own existence.

Therefore, you are a quasmic field of energy information and you are constantly creating.

Reminding you of this may be helping you to stabilize your thought patterns so that you automatically connect in more strongly to the nonphysical expanded quasmic field of existence – consciousness.

Remember, this is what you are and what you are actively expressing and doing by being consciously present, focused within the physicality existence that has been created and you are creating – what you call your life.

This will be changing many attitudes you might have had. It might be changing some elements you had been consciously holding onto to identify yourself or perhaps they had been put upon you and you accepted them as reality.

Moving into this fullness of the quasmic creative consciousness – this intelligence that is you – enables you to see clearly that which is existing or coexisting with you and your choice becomes evident to you. Choosing the corrective pattern, the frequency pattern that you call frequency light patterns that are the correction system.

Basically, you came into the pattern of consciousness as a corrective system, so you became involved in the civilization that is consciousness and systems that were put in place – perhaps as limiting in whatever way – but remember, you are always connected to the prime system of conscious intelligence – the source pattern of energy. You are always reminded to connect to the nexus point – the pure connecting point of your conscious intelligent system of creation – the point of origin.

This is an automatic resequencing. It brings every aspect of your consciousness into precise alignment and connection.

Following this, you exchange a different form of frequency patterns with other Beings you come into proximity with or into some state of conscious connection.

It is the conscious connections that exist within the unified quantum field that are important and you recognize this.

You have fully gathered this as – you could say, it is an energetic sequence that you remember and you have reconnected with.

This will flow throughout your nonphysical – your true life essence pattern – and the physical which is also the true life essence pattern because you are manifesting the pureness of creation.

This is your focus in this session in this presentation to you and you are immersed within this.

You are acknowledged.”

Lani speaking again.

It is always nice to be acknowledged – do you think that?

I acknowledge you.

I acknowledge the presentation of this energy pattern presented through my voice in words that we understand.

Perhaps some of the words we do not fully understand because they are delivered in a way that they are not defining you or limiting you by any learned definition. This is the point of these sessions – moving beyond limiting word frames into the quasmic field – the great quantum field of everything.

This is what you have received. This is what you are naturally bringing back into your life pattern and expressing through you in your life pattern from this moment.

Thus, this session is complete today through Omega Communications.

Thank you.

Lani
