Why do you Exist? Your Presence Filtration system. Replenish.

Hello. Lani with you again, helping you to recognise the energy system that you are as a Conscious Being and also helping you to align yourself correctly to the energy system that is the supportive field of energy and information existing around you and through you.

These few words bring you into alignment with that pure intelligence system from the beginning of you – the essence of you – and in this way we easily connect together and connect into the field of consciousness known as the collective consciousness which is the intelligence of creation before it becomes tarnished in any way, interfered with in any way.

So, you are coming into a pure state of receptivity, ready to receive the light field.

This is the way we begin this session today.

“Welcome and as you are received into this collective field of energy, you will feel that you are stepping into a space which is clearing the energy field around you, similar to you walking through a veil, or a filtration field. This allows you to leave behind associated conditions which you might be experiencing which might be disturbing you in your physical life system and, leaving that behind, you move into the pure state of your own intelligent system again to fully recognize that. Therefore, you are able to fully recognize this and receive it fully within that which you call your physical life and physical system.

This is the point of bringing you into gatherings such as this.

Further, beyond this, become aware that you have connections into some deep states of existence. They might be called parallel. They might be called a correlation, or similar energy system. In whatever system you may be remembering you exist within, you come together into the pure state, the pure energetic source of the creation of the essence of you.

This is where you are always replenishing yourself, revitalizing yourself and in one sense many of you may say you are remembering your mission, remembering your purpose.

Many of you feel you need to have a mission or a purpose or a project to actually exist within a physical dimension as you exist within the planetary Earth system. It may be called any of those. It may be something more than any of those concepts that you adopted to recognize and to help you stabilize yourself within the physical system.

When you step into reconfiguring, replenishing and resequencing your entire energy field, you move beyond purpose, reason, identification and you simply are a presence. The presence that you exist as energetically, physically, in every way, is you presenting the pure element of creation in you and through you and around you.

It is a simple understanding, a simple remembering. When you remember this, you are reflecting out, you are emanating out from you that pure intelligent creative system and so it is.

This is the reminder that you came forward into this session to receive today.

There is possibly a sense of motivation again – enlivening – and so it is. This is part of replenishing yourself when you move into the precise alignment system again and therefore all systems within your energy field are aligned and working cohesively to maintain and sustain your living system in every way.

If you are maintaining and replenishing and expanding your living system, this is working in the same way in the field around you through which you react and you activate the similar field of clear intelligence around you and in the connections you have with people.

While the focus may be on you to ensure your clear connection, it has a flow-on effect through your energy field.

One of the basic elements that you need to do and function, is to completely align to the original point of origin and this has a balancing and aligning effect throughout your energy field.

Sometimes as you come into these sessions we adjust the energy field for you. Your supporting field around you as an individual energy also makes adjustments to your energy field and this again is necessary. It is a personal filtration system.

Now you are fully immersed within this quantum connective field that is consciousness, it relieves you of some thought patterns you may have still been carrying and experiencing that are not relevant, not needed, in the clear current civilization you are positively creating and connecting to.

This is the main immersion for you in this session in this field. You already have accepted it by continuing in this pattern of frequency, the pattern of words, that is energy all around you.

This is for your assistance today and expanding into more deeply."

Lani speaking again, just concluding this session, as we were deeply immersed again in that quasmic intelligent field that is known as consciousness.

This is what you are reminding yourself that you are and this is what you bring back into your living space – whatever that means for you and however you relate to it and however you relate to the energy system that you have clearly connected with and you bring it clearly into your living space.

Thank you for receiving this. Thank you for being this that you are – as a bringer, as a receiver of light energy and information.

This ends this session today through Omega Communications.

Thank you.

Lani
